Labor-Capital-Harmony, That Should Be the Program. Why Grant Succeeded. The Railroads Have Troubles.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

GERMANY PREDICTS that our depression will force an end of harmonious relations between labor and capital, and many strikes may be expected. Let us hope that Germany is mistaken.

The executive committee of the American Federation of Labor calls on organized labor to resist "to the fullest extent any and all attempts to reduce wages, and lower American living standards."

To resist wage reduction is to fight the depression, in the opinion of labor unions.

WHILE THE question is discussed, wages are being reduced. In certain big industries employes are compelled to take "time off" at their own expense.

What is needed is some one with an idea that will make employment at high wages as profitable as it was in 1929. It should never be forgotten that WHAT DOES NOT PAY WILL NOT BE DONE.

NEW YORK celebrated with a parade, and kind words, the one hundred and first anniversary of Gen. Grant's birthday. His granddaughter, the Princess Cantacuzene, and his grandson, Col. U. S. Grant III, witnessed the ceremonies at Grant's fine tomb on the Hudson River.

For at least 80,000,000 Americans, U. S. Grant is only a name, learned in school books with the names of Lafayette, Washington and others. To other men it is the name of the man who "fought it out" and won. They said he drank whisky, and Lincoln suggested that some of the other generals find out what kind of whisky Grant drank, and buy a lot of it.

THE INTERESTING fact in Grant's life is this. When he had nothing in particular to do, he did nothing in particular. In fact, before the world heard of him, after he left West Point, he knew more about whisky than he did about anything else.

But when the chance came to do something worth while, he did it, gloriously.

What three-quarters of all the people on earth need is a chance to do something worth while. Our kind of society doesn't give them the chance. They are fitted into a job like a horse in the traces of a street car and jog along until they fall, and make room for another.

That may change, but not in this century, nor in the next ten.

AUTOMOBILE MANUFACTURERS send new cars to their destinations sometimes hundreds of miles away loaded on automobile trucks, instead of sending them by rail. The railroads feel this in their receipts. The Interstate Commerce Commission permits lines of the Southwest to reduce the freight rates on automobiles to meet that "drive-away" competition.

Why do the railroads need permission to reduce rates? They are selling transportation and should need no permission to meet any competition.

AS LONG as the country is not prepared to guarantee profits to railroads why should it interfere with their making profits if they can?

The railroads have a big problem of reorganization before them, a good deal bigger than some railroad men realize, and should not be hampered.

OUR "BEST MINDS" tell us that "no matter what happens, we must never sink low enough to adopt the dole."

England, with a dole amounting to $500,000,000 a year, is called a horrible example.

On the other hand, without any dole, this country faces a deficit of a billion dollars for one year, the biggest deficit any government ever had in peace. The dole didn't cause that.

What a government hands out as "dole" goes to stores for food and clothes, it isn't burned up.

However, we don't want any dole, we want PROSPERITY.

ON THE OTHER hand, if it came to the question, "will you FEED them or will you FIGHT them?" we should find it wise to feed them.

And the best way to feed them is to hand the money to the head of each family, not to a Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., Salvation Army, or any other "overhead" organization. Or, if we must distribute through an agency, let it be through the Navy or the Army.

THE KING of Siam does not agree with the rotund Mr. Chesterton, of Great Britain, concerning New York City. Mr. Chesterton, his architectural view perhaps influenced by his own architectural outline, not unlike that of a tub of butter, thinks New York shocks good taste.

The intelligent Siamese King says that if a stranger came from the planet Mars "as a member of the human race, I would show him New York and tell him that this is what the human race has been able to do."

THE METHODS of gangsters under the modern system is interesting. It is shown that, in New York City, they have put millions in banks. One young man from Porto Rico, who reached New York not long ago with a fortune of 10 cents, and no more, tells an official investigating him:

"I have got $600,000 soaked away. And you can all go and jump in the river."

Wealth is arrogant. Another "policy king" had deposited $1,250,000. These men can be reached only by income tax procedure. Where cash is involved we take law-breaking seriously.

GIRLS 'BORROW' CAR, HIT POLE

Two girls, said by police to have "borrowed" their escort's automobile while he was paying the bill in a roadhouse, and to have collided with a pole in Spring Garden road, were arrested today.

Miss Hess, 22

They were fined $10 each after a hearing in Morals Court.

The girls, Irene Blake, 21 and Ada Hess, 19, both of 322 Penn avenue, told police they had been riding with Gilbert Tomm, of 818 Spring Garden avenue, and another man they did not know.

Tomm and the other man were involved in an argument at the Green Lantern, Spring Garden road, and when they went back to settle the bill, Miss Blake ordered the Hess girl into the machine and drove off, the girls told police.

After the accident, the girls made their way to their room in spite of bruises they suffered. Tomm complained to police, and officers in a scout car, who were radioed information of the affair, went to the girls' room and arrested them. They were taken to North Side Police Station.

Rody Marshall's Widow Tells Babcock Building Would Ruin Her Schenley Home

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong today successfully resisted efforts of Attorney Oliver K. Eaton to make him admit that Norman F. Brown, county public works director, had advised against purchasing the Nicola site at Fifth and Ruskin avenues, for the county's new $6,000,000 Town Hall.

Armstrong was called for cross-examination when the hearing in the equity suit of Schenley Farms and Oakland taxpayers to restrain the County Commissioners from completing negotiations with F. F. Nicola for the purchase of the protested site opened before Common Pleas Judge James R. Macfarlane.

BABCOCK NAMED AS BUYER

He was grilled by Attorney Eaton for the greater part of the morning during which he admitted that practically all of the negotiations for the purchase of the Nicola site at $8 a square foot were conducted orally by County Commissioner E. V. Babcock.

Armstrong said that while no plans have been drawn for the new town hall, the county commissioners plan to erect a structure to meet all demands. Commissioner E. V. Babcock also took the stand.

During the noon recess Mrs. Rody P. Marshall, widow of Pittsburgh's famed criminal lawyer, clashed with Commissioner Babcock in the corridors of Common Pleas Court. Replying to Babcock's cordial greeting, Mrs. Marshall, one of the residents of the Schenley Farms region, said:

"I wish this town hall was going to be erected in your front yard. You might as well

Girl Fans Cost Fairbanks British Golf Match

WESTWARD HO, NORTH DEVON, England, May 18.—(INS.)—Douglas Fairbanks, smiling American film star, paid the price of popularity today in his short-lived bid for fame in the British amateur championship. Hounded by chattering women and girls who pestered him for autographs at every opportunity and burst into giggles when he bewailed his poor shots, he lost to J. R. Abercrombie, of the Royal Liverpool Club, 1 up, on the eighteenth green.

Ross Thompson, of Uniontown, Pa., a member of the Nemacolin Country Club, was defeated by L. R. H. Hornby, of Saltford. George Voigt, of New Work, chief U. S. hope, won his first two matches.

SOUTHAMPTON, May 18.—(INS.)—Douglas Fairbanks, still active and spry as a circus acrobate, is "too agile" for Mary Pickford, so she isn't going to act with him in films any more, she announced today as she arrived here from New York for a "second honeymoon." As soon as she disembarked from the Bremen, she telephoned Doug and learned of his defeat at Westward Ho in the British amateur championship.

Phillips Upholds Electric Rates Charged Homes

Asserting that the average household bill for electricity is only 8 cents per day, or 1.6 per cent of the household budget, F. R. Phillips, president of the Philadelphia Company, today answered Gov. Gifford Pinchot's attack on public utilities. His answer was in the form of an address made before the noon luncheon of the Hungry Club.

Phillips' address started with the electric power industry.

He said:

"When the total revenues of the electric power industry are only 2 per cent of the national income, and electricity in the home takes but 1.6 per cent of the average family budget, where is the strangle-hold which it is claimed that the utilities have on the cost of living and margin for happiness?

"More than 85 per cent of the urban homes and 70 per cent of all the homes in the United States are supplied with electric service, and there are more than 200 electric appliances available to make household

High-grade rails and industrial reached new lows for the bear market, which has been in progress since the fall of 1929.

Just as the market was closing another selling wave broke the leaders to the low points of the day, with American Telephone leading the late decline.

JANE THURSTON SUIT VOIDED BY ERROR

Magician's Daughter Finds Action Against Husband, Harry Harris, Off Docket

DETROIT, May 18.—(AP.)—A court clerk's error, discovered today, caused dismissal of the assault and battery charge brought several weeks ago by Jane Thurston Harris, daughter of Howard Thurston, the magician, against her husband, Harry Harris, of Pittsburgh.

Harris was charged with attacking his wife during an argument in their hotel rooms here while Thurston and his daughter were filling a theatrical engagement. Thurston discharged a tear gas capsule in Harris' face. Harris returned to his home in Pennsylvania after spending a short time in a hospital.

Thurston and his daughter asked the court to set May 18 as the date for the case, but a court clerk placed the date as April 18. Judge Van Zile told counsel for Mrs. Harris today that he had dismissed the case when no one appeared a month ago.

'Bugs' Lost, So Derby Is Just Another Memory

By Arthur 'Bugs' Baer

LOUISVILLE, May 18.

The Kentucky Derby is now a memory unless you won. Which makes it a memory for us.

We thought that Twenty Grand would win, but Damon Runyon steered us off on a long shot. Runyon would bet on the 20-mule borax team if he got the proper odds.

And he would be happy as those 20 mules came scramming down the track.

And you can be certain that Damon wouldn't have his money on the lead span. He would have a $10 bet on the last pair.

Never saw a horse race before, but that Twenty Grand spotted those other hosses a couple of race tracks and then came down the stretch with plenty of free wheeling.

George "Jiggs" McManus was made a Kentucky colonel by the governor yesterday in a brilliant ceremony. That entitles him to eat his corn beef and cabbage out of a high hat.

The punitive expedition of Hearst cartoonists breaks up at this point. Most of them went back to New York.

Ted Cook is on his way to California. Rube Goldberg has been appointed commissioner of detours of Arkansas and I'm still in Louisville waiting to see if the Interstate Commerce Commission will give me a rebate on the hoss I bet on.

First Bid for Fame Failed to Turn Head Of Happy Clara Bow

Herewith the Sun-Telegraph presents the first chapter of the REAL life story of Clara Bow by Louella O. Parsons.

In this and succeeding chapters the biographer of the red-haired, rollicking, devil-may-care screen star will reveal the fascinating story of Miss Bow's early life in a poor tenement district in Brooklyn, intimate details of her tomboy childhood and girlhood, the struggle for screen fame and her romances—love affairs with this man and that man, which have been gossiped about so much.

Miss Parsons handles her subject with a wealth of understanding and reveals a new Clara Bow that the world knows nothing of.

CHAPTER I.

Poor, unfortunate Clara Bow, the little girl who has helped everyone else but herself, is lying desperately sick in a sanitarium. Broken in health, crushed in spirit and racked with grief over the recent articles written in the vicious Coast Reporter, Clara is wondering whether life is really worth the struggle.

While she is brooding over the long list of tragedies that have followed her from the day of her birth 25 years ago, her father, Robert Bow, and her loyal friend, Rex Bell, are coaxing her to renew her fight. They are persuading her to come back and give life just one more trial.

Joining hands with Robert Bow and Rex Bell are many unknown friends who have been befriended by the little red-haired Bow girl. Praying each day for her are men and women who have appealed to Clara Bow for help and who have not been denied.

Clara Too Trustful

Clara, who has learned through bitter lessons of cruel experience that pitifully few people are to be trusted, can take comfort in the fact that hundreds of letters have come to the Hearst newspapers pleading that Clara be given sym-

THREE PALS CAPTURED IN SHOOTING

Fast Gunplay by Victim of 13 Robberies Foils Theft; Pittsburgh Runaway Held

One Pittsburgh youth was dead today and another Pittsburgh youth and two New Yorkers were under arrest in Elyria, O., because of quick gunplay by a gasoline station owner who had been victimized 13 times by bandits.

The dead youth, believed to have been Wilson Earl Cole, 19, of 1408 Beverly place, Brookline, was killed after he is alleged to have threatened Matt Gardner, one-armed proprietor of the station, with a revolver, police said.

The Pittsburgher under arrest is Henry Jollie, 19, who, it is said, ran away from his home at 183 Banner way a year ago. Jollie fled after Cole was shot, police said, but ran into the arms of County Prosecutor Don W. Myers, whose golf game was interrupted by the shooting.

PALS CAPTURED

The other two, Alfred Gallo, 15, and Nichola Parrota, 19, both of New York, were captured by Gardner after Cole dropped to the station driveway with a bullet in his neck.

Sheriff Clarence Adams said that the youths drove up to the station in a car bearing New York license plates. They wanted gasoline and oil.

Gardner put five gallons of gas and three quarts of oil in the car, Adams said, and was waiting for his money when Cole declared:

"That isn't enough oil. Go get two more quarts."

Gardner went into the station and was pumping the oil when he noticed Cole coming toward him with a drawn revolver, according to the sheriff. As Cole reached the door, two of his companions joined him, it was said, and Cole yelled:

"Hands up!"

SNATCHES UP GUN

Gardner, according to the sheriff, jumped aside and succeeded in getting two of Cole's companions between Cole and himself, and then grabbed a revolver from his cash box.

Cole fled when he saw Gardner's revolver, the sheriff said, but when Gardner called out for him to stop, he turned and started to point his gun at Gardner.

Gardner fired and Cole fell, according to Adams. Jollie fled until he was stopped by the prosecutor, but the other two remained near their machine with their hands in the air.

At Jollie's home it was said he ran away a year ago and his parents had been unable to find any trace of him.

BEFRIENDED BY COUPLE

Cole, since early this year, has been making his home with Mr. and Mrs. William A. St. Vincent, Brookline bakers, by whom he was employed as a salesman. He was one of several young men the St. Vincent's obtained at the Helping Hand and befriended.

He left the St. Vincent home last Friday, announcing his intention of enlisting in the United States Marine Corps. At Marine Corps recruiting headquarters in the Federal Building, it was said a youth answering Cole's description, had been accepted for enlistment. His parents are dead, but he has a brother, Clarence, a helper on the steamer Rover, at Elizabeth, Pa.

Misleading Detour Sign Jams Morning Traffic

The work of connecting the Horace street vehicular ramp to the Boulevard of the Allies started today, causing considerable delay of street car and motor traffic in the districts adjacent to the lower part of the boulevard.

A detour was established at Bluff street, rerouting inbound traffic off the boulevard there. During the 8 to 10 a. m. rush, while the work is being done, inbound traffic is to be permitted on the left side of the boulevard, with outbound vehicles being detoured.

A sign at Bluff street and the boulevard today instructed motorists to use Magee street and Fifth avenue for a detour. It did not mention that the boulevard was open from 8 to 10 o'clock.

As a result hundreds of motorists who could have easily used the boulevard at that time diverted into streets where the Liberty bridge and tunnels pour a daily throng of autos during the early hours.

An unusual congestion of traffic followed, backing up cars as far as the bridge and tunnels and into the adjoining Fifth avenue and Forbes street districts.

SPAIN TO EXPEL ALL PRELATES HOSTILE TO REPUBLIC

BISHOP LEAVES BY ORDER OF ZAMORA

Pastoral Letter Blamed for Inciting Religious Riots; Reply to Pope Awaited

By THOMAS A. LOAYZA
International News Service.

MADRID, May 18.—On the heels of an official complaint from the Vatican over anti-religious disorders in Spain, the provisional republican government announced today that all prelates of the Roman Catholic Church who persisted in maintaining a "monarchist attitude" would be summarily expelled from the country.

The first prelate to be dealt with in this manner was the Bishop of Vittoria, who was "requested" to leave immediately. The bishop complied with the order.

Citing the case of the bishop of Vittoria as an example, a government spokesman said that similar action would be taken against any other members of the clergy who refused to bow to the will of the republic, as well as against extreme radicals.

FORCE PROMISED

If the "offenders" refuse to comply with the expulsion order, the government will not hesitate to use force if necessary, the announcement said.

This stern action was believed precipitated by a pastoral letter sent out two weeks ago by Cardinal Segura y Saenz, archbishop of Toledo, in which he urged the people to vote for candidates who would defend "the rights of the church." Government officials declared this letter was largely responsible for the religious riots. Cardinal Segura subsequently left the country. He is believed to be in France.

WAIT ZAMORA REPLY

Monarchists and Republicans meanwhile awaited with interest today the reply of Provisional President Zamora to the protests of the papal nuncio over the destruction of Catholic property during the recent anti-clerical riots. It was not indicated when the reply would be forthcoming.

Interest was heightened in the condemnation by Pope Pius XI of the disorders, which he termed "sacrileges against God and holy religion," and placed the responsibility at the doors of those who caused them as well as those who participated in them.

She added that she was awaiting to express her views on the purchase of the Nicola site.

Replying to Attorney Eaton's questioning concerning Brown's adverse advice, Armstrong said the location was a matter for the County Commissioners to decide.

Eaton asked:

"Was the advice given privately to you by Brown?"

Armstrong replied:

"Everything that was said was open and above board. We discussed the Town Hall question in meetings for two and a half years."

MEMORY FAILS ARMSTRONG

Eaton persisted:

"What did Mr. Brown say to you about the Nicola site?"

The reply was:

"We would not have accepted Mr. Brown's advice on location."

Attorney Eaton read the question to him again, and added:

"I'm asking you what Brown told you?"

Armstrong replied:

"My memory doesn't serve me."

Commissioner Armstrong was questioned closely about events leading up to the agreement with Nicola. Attorney Eaton sought to determine if the Duquesne Garden property was offered the county at $5.50 a square foot prior to the Nicola offer. He asked Armstrong:

"Are you sure that the Duquesne Garden site was not offered to you long before the Nicola offer?"

Armstrong said:

"I'm sure. My mind runs in that channel."

Armstrong testified that the commissioners were not deeply concerned over any parking problem which might be involved in the Oakland location, although he added that there was ample space in the surrounding territory.

In the preliminary skirmishes it was indicated that the fight against the location of the Town Hall in Oakland might be carried eventually to the State Supreme Court.

RADIO DIRECTS 762 PLANES IN REVIEW

Fliers Escape Serious Harm; Officers Say No Nation Could Duplicate Record

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service.

FAIRFIELD, O., May 18.—Puzzling questions of military aviation were given an answer here today in smooth formation work of the 672-plane Army Air Corps Division concentrated for maneuvers at the Fairfield Air Depot.

Two days of review and demonstration work found the giant unit handling smoothly as a single squadron, controlled by a central radio station. Four minor crashes were recorded but not a serious accident marred the largest aerial review in history.

Two National Guard planes nosed over landing on a field wet from rain, and a regular Army flier suffered a similar mishap, but none of the airmen was seriously injured. A Langley Field (Va.) bomber was forced to land five miles north of Union City, Ind., when one motor cut out, and slapped a fence over as it glided in, but ripped wing fabric and broken stabilizers were the only damages.

These mishaps, unnoticeable to the 200,000 spectators who thronged highways and perched on hills and fences, were the net casualties of a dozen hours of radio-controlled flying of more than half a thousand American Army airplanes. Staff officers expressed the opinion the feat could not be duplicated by any nation in the world.

The air corps has made a war arena of the Miami River valley and kept the air swarming with ships that in war time could have wrought havoc throughout the land. They swept past the reviewing stand in a column miles long, motors throbbing a 100-mile-an-hour speed.

Both flights are scheduled to soar over the city, refuel and proceed eastward to Philadelphia.

JOHN "JAKE THE BARBER" FACTOR AND AMERICAN BRIDE

"Jake the Barber," sought widely by American and British police for alleged British stock swindling that turned a profit of $12,000,000 and reported sought by grim gangsters of Chicago, New York, St. Louis for revenge or kidnaping. His wife's a Chicago girl.

2 NATIONS, GANG SEEK SWINDLER

CHICAGO, May 18.—(AP.)—Reports were current today that John Factor, known as "Jake the Barber," alleged swindler of English stock investors, was sought by the lawless as well as by the law of the United States and Great Britain.

The Chicago Daily Tribune said a price had been set on Factor's head by Jack (Legs) Diamond, New York gangster, and quoted federal agents as fearing he might be slain before he could be arrested for extradition to England, where he is accused of defrauding investors of several millions of dollars.

"Jake the Barber," reputed to have made big money illegally since he closed up his cut rate shop in Halsted street, was at odds with Diamond, the Tribune said, because of his failure to split the profits of a stock selling scheme after Diamond had "grubstaked" him on a trip to England.

KIRKLAND PALS TELL ABOUT GIN PARTY

International News Service.

VALPARAISO, Ind., May 18.—Two pals of Virgil Kirkland, on trial for the second time for the murder of his 18-year-old sweetheart, Arlene Draves, took the witness stand against him today in the courtroom of Judge Joseph Crumpacker.

They were Paul Barton and Henry (Tony) Shirk, who attended the Gary gin party which preceded the death of Arlene, and were with Kirkland on the fatal automobile ride during which Arlene was found to be dead.

Kirkland appeared nervous as his former chums took the stand to give their testimony which may send the young defendant to the electric chair. Barton also was nervous, and avoided the eyes of the defendant.

Barton told of the party, the drinking, and of Virgil and Arlene embracing on the sofa in the front room of the David Thompson home, at which the fatal party was held. He told of finding Kirkland and Arlene in his car outside the Thompson home.

USES GASOLINE ON FIRE, DYING

A husband was dying in Allegheny Valley Hospital at Natrona Heights today because he thought first of the comfort of his wife and their infant child.

Returning to their home at Haffey, near Tarentum, early Sunday morning, from a visit to relatives, John Rinke, 28, a coal miner, entered their home to start a fire, leaving Mrs. Waneta Rinke, his wife, and their child in their automobile.

The fire ignited slowly and to hasten it Rinke reached for a can of oil. He grasped a bottle of gasoline instead. There was a terrific explosion as he poured the fluid on the smoldering flame and Minke was enveloped.

He ran outside, beating out the fire. Mrs. Rinke aided him in extinguishing his flaming clothing and then drove him to the hospital, 12 miles away.

Frog Leaps 11 Feet to Win Contest a la Mark Twain

ANGELS CAMP, Cal., May 18.—(AP.)—Mark Twain's immortal story of the jumping frog has been re-enacted in this sun-baked mining village, and today Budweiser, the greatest piece of frog flesh that ever swung a leg down Main street, was the toast of the vicinity.

The lead pellets of Twain's jumping contests were missing yesterday, just as were lead bullets in the six-guns flourished before 20,000 spectators.

The mottled Budweiser, which brought victory to his master, Louis Fisher, of Stockton, Cal., leaped 11 feet 5 inches to defeat 150 other entries in the fourth annual Calaveras frog jumping contest.

Between lines of screaming women, shouting men and goading children, Budweiser stretched long, lean legs to seize victory from Puddle Jumper, entered by John Decchenino, Oakdale, Cal. Puddle Jumper leaped 11 feet 1 inch. Joe placed third with a leap of 10 feet 6 inches, for Joe Cesar, of Antioch, Cal.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., May 18.

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

A world conference on silver would do no harm and might do some good. Like so many other commodities, silver has been cheapened by the increased use of machinery and invention in its production. This process has been going on for centuries. Obviously a metal that fluctuates so much in value is not well adapted to be used for a unit of value of money. But as a token of exchange it is exceedingly convenient. That use might possibly be increased. Some method of control similar to the proposed system for sugar may well be considered.

Mr. Coolidge

But all such plans are but temporary makeshifts. When too much human effort goes into producing one commodity we get what we call over-supply. We do not need to study that supply, for it is already ample. What we really need to study is how to produce more of other commodities by those who are now idle. The basic problem of the world is to draw off those people who have been engaged in over-production into some form of new industries whose output can be exchanged for the present over-supply. A conference on that subject would be of fundamental importance.

BOMBS DAMAGE M'KEESPORT AND M'KEES ROCKS HOMES

2 BLASTS HURL RESIDENTS FROM BEDS

Up-River Terrorists Plant Dynamite Near Police Station; Others Use Auto

County detectives and borough police today were investigating bombings which hurled residents from their beds and shattered windows in homes and business establishments in McKeesport and McKees Rocks early yesterday and today.

The McKeesport bombing occurred within a half block of the police station, rocking the stationhouse and breaking windows in nearly a score of homes, according to Sergt. J. F. Neel.

The explosion was caused, police say, by a dynamite bomb placed between a harness shop, operated by A. W. McCaw, at 409 Blackberry street, and an adjacent building. Windows in both buildings were blown out. No injuries were reported.

Residents of McKees Rocks were awakened early yesterday when a dynamite bomb, thought by police to have been tossed from an automobile, wrecked the billiard hall and home of Charles Hall, at 900 Island avenue.

Mrs. Mary Hall, 63, mother of Charles Hall, asleep on the second floor, was thrown from her bed by the force of the explosion. Windows in all three stories of the brick building owned by Mrs. Hall were blown out, as were those of a dozen nearby structures.

Police believed the bomb was tossed into the entrance of the Hall building, as Patrolman Paul Thomas passed the building a few minutes before the explosion and it was not there.

Hall told police that he was unable to give a motive for the bombing.

Eight prisoners, six men and two women, en route to the workhouse, made a hurred exit from the West End auto patrol, when it took fire in Butler street, Etna, shortly before noon today. No attempt at escape was made, as all were shackled.

A leaking gas line set fire to the motor and smoke filled the car. Thomas Beggs, conductor, took the prisoners from the machine as soon as it was stopped by George Moore, driver.

Jackson Sword, Century-Old, Reaches U. S.

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP.)—After an eight-year search for the century-old sword of Andrew Jackson, Marc Koven, an American, is back from Paris with it.

He went to Washington to offer the sword to the Smithsonian Institution for the same price he paid for it, understood to be about $10,000.

Koven revealed he started his search in 1922 after reading a newspaper advertisement in Paris. He finally located the sword last year in the home of an old French general.

The weapon is said to have been presented to Gen. Jackson by officers who fought under him.

CLARK ORDERS KING'S ARREST

Public Safety Director James M. Clark today ordered Acting Inspector Anthony Block to arrest Billy King, alleged proprietor of the Silver Slipper night club, Federal street, on a charge of violating the state dance act.

Last Friday, Rubin and King were held in $2,000 bond by a United States commissioner as a result of raids by prohibition agents on the Slipper and Alabam.

The Slipper, according to Clark, has been without a permit for four months. Inspector Block, he said, informed him he was unaware there was dancing in the cabaret.

The license Clark gave to Roxy Nesta to operate the Wylie avenue club has been revoked and the Alabam is again closed "for all time," according to Clark. Clark said today he was surprised to learn of Joe Rubin's connection with it.

MARRIAGES SET HIGH RECORD IN 1929

Pennsylvania Unions Show Same Gain as in Nation; New Mark for Divorces

Business in general may be in the doldrums, but it isn't reflected in the marriage market.

The 1929 statistics, compiled by the Department of Commerce, show that 1,232,559 couples were married in 1929, compared with 1,182,497 in 1928, or an increase of 4.2 per cent.

Pennsylvania marriages increased at exactly the same percentage, with 70,507 in 1929 and 67,640 in 1928. The 1928 figures were a decrease of 4.9 per cent from the 1927 total of 71,130.

There were 201,468 divorces in the nation in 1929 and 195,939 in 1928, an increase of 2.8 per cent.

Divorces in Pennsylvania decreased 1.1 per cent, 7,866 being recorded in 1929, 7,957 in 1928.

Allegheny County showed an increase in marriages, with 9,906 in 1929 and 9,500 in 1928, and a decrease in divorces with 1,383 in 1929, 1,446 in 1928.

Nevada, the one state where the divorce rate would be expected to reach its peak, fooled the statisticians with a decrease of 2.4 per cent when 2,533 divorces were granted in 1929 against 2,595 in 1928.

Nevada pulled a second surprise by recording the largest increase in marriages—37.5 per cent, with 5,733 in 1929, 4,168 in 1928.

Only seven of the 48 states showed a decrease in the number of marriages for 1928, while 17 showed a decrease in divorces.

WORRY BLAMED FOR TRIPLE SHOOTING

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—An inferiority complex and worry over his third examination to become a certified public accountant in his father's New York firm, was believed today to have caused Robert Shaw Montgomery, 26, to seriously wound a night club manager, shoot and kill a policeman and then kill himself early Sunday.

The triple tragedy was brought on by the refusal of a head waiter at the Club Chantecler to give Montgomery and Miss Norvell Munford, Washington debutante, a certain table. The couple left, but Montgomery returned to the club later and argued with Charles Garbett, the manager.

SHOOTS MANAGER

Witnesses said Montgomery suddenly pulled a pistol from a holster concealed under his arm and shot Garbett.

The shot was heard by some of those on the crowded dance floor. Most of the couples continued to dance, while only a few men started in pursuit of the young man with the pistol.

Patrolman Jesse Taylor, downstairs, heard the shot and started running up to the club. Montgomery met him on the second floor landing, fired two shots into the policeman's body and ran to the street. There he fired two bullets into his own body and died.

LEAVES NOTE

"There's only one genius in a number of generations. The colonel is it. The next one can't be expected for 100 years. I've tried to live up to it. I can't. He ranks. I don't."

He was referring to his father as "the colonel"—Col. Robert W. Montgomery, an expert on tax matters and partner of the New York firm of public accountants.

pathy and help as well as a chance to overcome the tragedies that have so nearly wrecked her.

Her great fault, according to her father, who knows her best, is her trusting nature. Those whom Clara likes can have anything she owns. She trusted the agent who first brought her to Hollywood, she took the calculating Daisy De Voe into her home and treated her as a loving sister until she learned Miss De Voe was robbing her. Those who are closest to Clara claim that she gave Dr. William Earl Pearson huge sums to finish his education and which later were turned over to a wife from whom Clara thought he was definitely separated.

Life of Tragedy

Nearly every man with whom she has had a romance has taken and taken from her. Clara has had many romances because she is attractive to men. She has always had that something which modern writers call sex appeal. That's an expression I dislike to use—it's so bromidic—but it best expresses the fascination Clara has always had for every man who looks upon her.

Case after case where people whom Clara believed to be true friends and later turned out to be parasites living off her bounty and profiting from her generosity were told to me by her father. Clara, sunny, bright and full of the love of life, only wanted to be happy. She wanted love, she wanted to be understood, and she wanted to see everyone else in the world kept from the misery that haunted her early childhood.

From the time Clara was born, July 29, 1906, in a poor little house in Brooklyn to a mother who was almost too ill to bear children, until she collapsed on the set at Paramount a few weeks ago, she has had one tragedy after another. Brave, naturally of sweet disposition, lovable and happy-go-lucky, she has fought against obstacles that have stood in her way, reasoning that eventually her luck would change and fate would give her a break.

Perhaps if Clara had been less frank, less out in the open and if she had not scorned to pretend, she might have escaped from some of the unsavory scandal and the notoriety that has haunted her as consistently as a vulture haunts a carrion.

But the red-haired daughter of Robert and Sarah Gordon Bow was simply incapable to deceit. She has no artifices. She is real and natural and, therefore, unable to deal with those who sneak through life under cover.

Not Stuck-up

I have always felt one of the most characteristic stories of Clara Bow's amazing frankness occurred the first time I ever met her. It seems to be the very keynote to her character. For that reason I want to tell it before I start the life story of this girl whose heartbreaking unhappiness is worrying those who know and love her.

Clara had just been signed by B. P. Schulberg and J. Bachmann, of Peerless Pictures, to come to Hollywood and make a series of silent pictures.

I was then motion picture editor of the Morning Telegraph and I had written several favorable articles about this pretty child who had created a stir in "Down to the Sea in Ships." Morris Ryskind, who is now a writer on the Goldwyn lot and a playwright of distinction, was at that time press agent for the Peerless Company. He telephoned and asked me to have luncheon with Clara. We met by appointment in Mr. Bachmann's office. Bachmann asked Clara:

"Shall we go to the Ritz?"

Clara, who was leaving that day for Hollywood, said:

"Oh, don't let's go to that stuck-up place. You can get much more food for the money at one of the Chinese restaurants on Broadway and you can dance, too."

So to a chop suey emporium, resplendent in gold dragons and carved teakwood, we went. Clara so pretty with her big dark eyes and red hair that people along crowded Broadway turned to take a second look at her.

Morrie Ryskind prompted Clara:

Frank With Louella

"Tell Miss Parsons how much you enjoy her articles and how much you appreciate all the kind things she has said about you."

"I read you every day in the World," she said with a smile.

"Telegraph! Telegraph!" said Morrie Ryskind in a stage whisper.

"Oh, I mean Telegram," she said.

"Clara—tell me the truth," I interrupted. "You have never read anything I have written?"

"I don't see why I should lie," she replied. "I never read you and I never heard of you until this morning."

Even at the risk of my displeasure, Clara wouldn't lie. I was impressed with her and with her honesty. A liking for the little girl with the great eyes and an admitted preference for the garish Chinese restaurant was started that day and it has grown each year.

If, after Frederic Girnau started his poison penn attacks upon Clara Bow in his Coast Reporter, she had accepted the proposal made by two mysterious men through her father and Rex Bell, that she buy the weekly tabloid, think what she would have escaped. The men declared that if the Coast Reporter was purchased the scurrilous articles which have so shocked Hollywood would be stopped.

If, when Daisy De Voe, her untrustworthy secretary, asked for $125,000 to keep quiet, Clara had proved a coward, the vicious, cruel things Miss De Voe said on the witness stand in court would never have been brought to light.

If, at the time Dr. William Earl Pearson, Texas doctor, gave interviews to the press Clara had told how he had wooed her and made love to her under false pretenses, the newspapers might have had a different story.

But the flame-haired girl who was christened the "It" girl by Elinor Glyn is incapable of trying to hide behind a screen. Further, she has never learned how to lie.

Tragedy stalked early into the life of Clara Bow. As a child, a little boy, terribly burned, died in her arms; her grandfather, who brought most of the joy into her baby days, fell dead while romping with her. These unhappy incidents, the early struggles of the Bow family, are revealed by Louella Parsons tomorrow.

SENATE FIGHTS FOR SUNDAY BALL VOTE

Anti-Blue Law Backers Urge G. O. P. Keep 'Hands Off'; Oppose 'Pickling' Tactics

By ED PRENDERGAST
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, May 18.—Pressure on the Senate's Law and Order Committee to bring out the Denning Sunday baseball bill was expected today. It may bring the local option measure onto the floor of the Senate this week—perhaps tomorrow—it was learned.

An estimate of the liberals in the upper body, set at 24, promised a deadlock but indicated the growing influence of public opinion on the legislators. Two senators who may not be able to vote in the event the measure reaches a roll-call would put the bill over the top, or prevent its passage. A vote of 26 is necessary to pass the bill on to the Governor.

CHECK INTERFERENCE

Senators from Philadelphia and elsewhere who are reported to favor the bill, have asked that Gen. Edward Martin and other state Republican organization leaders keep out of the fight and let the bill meet victory or defeat on its own merits.

After its rough sledding in the House, where it passed after one of the bitterest and long-drawn battles in legislative history, senators hope to eliminate much of the acrimony by having the bill sent out and either beaten or passed with as little trouble as possible.

At present the Law and Order Committee is considered to be 2 to 1 against the bill.

POSSIBLE VOTE

A number of senators have expressed favor for the bill, and those who, legislators guess, may vote for it if it reaches the floor include the solid Philadelphia delegation of eight; at least four from Allegheny County, three Democrats and the senators from Luzerne, Delaware, Lackawanna, Lebanon, Montgomery, Erie, Schuylkill and Berks counties.

Luzerne has two, and the other districts one each. The position of Senator Fay, of Mercer County, is considered debatable, while several others may be convinced if their constituencies express their wishes.

The tendency of legislators uncertain of the wishes of their people has been to encourage "pickling" the measure. Proponents are attempting to keep it out of a political wrangle, while lobbyists for the church organizations have been working to keep the senators lined up against it.

SUNDAY RELIEF SHOW HALTED

County detectives last night stopped the Sunday night movie performance scheduled for the Roxian Theater, McKees Rocks, bringing to an end a series of shows said to have been held in co-operation with the Sto-Rox Welfare Fund.

No arrests were made, and the persons who had entered the place, estimated at 500, were given back their money after the detectives warned Herman Shulgold that the performance would not be permitted.

Appropriation Bill Ready for Senate

HARRISBURG, May 18.—(AP.)—The Senate probably will report for passage tonight the general appropriation bill and the Bidelspacher bill providing for the state taking over 20,000 miles of township roads. The latter bill has been amended slightly in the Senate roads committee.

The general appropriation bill will be approved on two readings as received from the House and then will be recommended for amendment, obtaining final passage late next week.

Railway Mediator To Run for Senate

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(AP.)—Edwin P. Morrow, member of the federal railway mediation board, announced today he would seek the Republican nomination for senator from Kentucky next year. The seat is now held by Senator Barkley, a democrat.

Former U. S. Minister Is Buried in Japan

TOKIO, May 18.—(AP.)—Funeral services for Edwin Dun, United States minister to Japan 36 years ago, were held here today. He died Saturday. Dun came to Japan 60 years ago as an agricultural expert. He was credited with introducing the American apple which now flourishes in Japan, Korea and Manchuria.

Einstein Will Aid Ethnological Film

BERLIN, May 18.—(AP.)—Prof. Albert Einstein has agreed to become one of the sponsors of the ethnological film venture headed by Robert J. Flaherty, and of which his son-in-law, Dmitri Marianoff, is art director.

It was understood here that this involves no investment by the famous scientist.

WELCOME FOR A RABBI

Grandchildren Greet Returning Rabbi Ashinsky

DORIS MRS. ASHINSKY RABBI A. M. ASHINSKY NAOMI

The Borkon children greeting their returning grandparents at 5840 Hobart street. Rabbi Ashinsky, long in Pittsburgh, returned yesterday after five years in Detroit, was widely welcomed home.

AWAIT PINCHOT JOB CHOICES

HARRISBURG, May 18. — The vacancy to the Supreme Court of the state must be filled within the next two weeks, if the candidate is to get Senate confirmation. Likewise, the superintendent of education, the lone cabinet member who must be indorsed by the Senate, must appear before the Senate committee.

James N. Rule, former principal of Schenley High School, Pittsburgh, is acting superintendent and has some support.

Senator James S. Boyd, of Montgomery County, has been definitely slated for the president pro-tem of the Senate, it was learned. The "back room" election, which is expected to be ratified on the floor of the Senate, was reported held in a country club late last week, with organization senators attending.

The naming of 10 of the 13 referees of the Workmen's Compensation Board is not contemplated until after the Legislature adjourns, it was said.

RABBI ASHINSKY GREETED HERE

Delegations from 12 congregations and representatives of Jewish cultural, civic and philanthropic organizations last night joined in tribute and welcome to Rabbi A. Ashinsky, for 25 years the leader of Orthodox Jewry here, who has been in Detroit for five years. A reception was held in his honor at the Hamedrash Hagadol Synagogue, Washington place.

Rabbi and Mrs. Ashinsky returned to Pittsburgh yesterday morning and were met by a reception committee of more than 100, Morris Neaman headed the reception committee.

During his sojourn in Detroit, Rabbi Ashinsky founded a Hebrew school of higher learning, and organized a rabbinnical council.

During the forthcoming Shebout holidays, Rabbi Ashinsky will occupy the pulpit Friday at the Beth Jacob Synagogue, and Saturday will speak at the Beth Hamedrash Hagadol Synagogue.

REDISTRICTING BATTLE NEAR

HARRISBURG, May 18.—The Spangler-McClure congressional reapportionment bills will be issues this week in both houses. They are expected to end up in a conference committee.

In the event a satisfactory outcome is not reached, and a compromise bill is not passed, the election of 34 congressmen-at-large would follow.

Congressmen incumbents are howling for a compromise, if they are to be elected at large, none could predict the outcome, both forces fear the worst.

The Senate passed the McClure bill outlining the plan of redistricting the state for election of 34 instead of 36 congressmen as outlined by the Republican state organization. The House passed the Spangler bill, embodying the plan devised by the Pinchot-Grundy forces. Each House last week rewrote the other House's bill in accord with its own views, but neither is expected to accept the changes made in its own measure.

DELAYS FILLING BENN VACANCY

HARRISBURG, May 18.—Gov. Pinchot, back at his desk today following his second speaking trip in the interest of the amended Howell bill, said he has no immediate plans for filling the vacancy on the Public Service Commission caused by the resignation of James S. Benn.

Gov. Pinchot said today he was not prepared to say whether he would ask for the resignations of Chairman W. D. B. Ainey and Commissioner Emerson Collins. Both men have been in ill health for months, although the chairman has been attending sessions of the commission.

The amended Howell bill, which holds the interest of the Governor now that his fair rate bills have been "pickled," would give the executive the right to "hire and fire" public service commissioners. This bill, as passed by the Senate, would prohibit utility rate increases from becoming effective until after approval of the commission.

UTILITIES HEAD DEFENDS LIGHT CHARGES

F. R. Phillips Tells Hungry Club Electricity Is But 1.6 Pct. of Home Budget

"Within the last 10 years more than 650 farms have been electrified, while in industry some 13,00,000 horsepower of motors have been put into service. Adequate supplies of cheap power have been one of the principal factors in raising American standards of living.

"The use of electric power in industry in Pittsburgh is much greater than the average for the United States. The figure for Pittsburgh is 6.5 horsepower per worker, while the average for the whole country is only 4.5 horsepower. The British worker uses only one-third of the horsepower used by the American worker.

INDUSTRY EFFICIENT

"The vast increase in the use of electricity in recent years is the best evidence of the efficient performance of the power industry in that period.

"It has been said by our critics that we are overcharging the small user of industrial power. In the past 10 years, 273 industrial and commercial companies, with a plant capacity of 80,000 kilowatts, have scrapped their own plants and taken Duquesne Light service. Why have they done that if they were to be overcharged?"

"In the face of continued trend upward in all of the major items in the cost of living, the cost of electricity has shown a consistent trend downward.

"One of the chief points of attack on the utility business has been the alleged high rates for electric service to the home. The absurdity of this contention is realized when it is recalled that the entire net earnings of the industry amount to only $850,000,000. If this three-quarters of a billion were to be taken out, practically nothing at all would be left for a return on the industry's $12,000,000,000 investment.

INCREASE LOGICAL

"It is true and perfectly logical that the price for electricity in the home should be much higher than in the factory and several times the cost of production in the power plant.

"For example, water in the river costs nothing. Water at the spigot in the home has a very definite cost which reflects interest on investment, maintenance and depreciation on the pumping plant, reservoir and pipes bringing the river to the home. Coal in the ground in Western Pennsylvania is worth around 20 cents, but delivered to the user far away may be worth five or six dollars. Porterhouse steaks on the table cost many times an equivalent weight of beef cattle."

Concerning the 25-cent bus service, Mr. Phillips said it was built up on a basis to supplement rather than compete with or duplicate the mass transportation facilities of the railways, then in the hands of receivers. He said the 25-cent fare is not profitable. In 1929 the Motor Coach Company split even and in 1930 there was a deficit of nearly $100,000.

ASSAILS PINCHOT

The Pinchot Fair Rate Board and kindred bills are unfair, unworkable and impracticable, would impose enormous increases in taxes for their administration, he said, and are the beginning of a program not only of governmental and political management and control of utilities, but of ultimate government ownership.

Phillips, after asserting there is no such thing as a power trust, declared:

CUSTOMS PACT TO GO BEFORE LEAGUE COURT

Five Nations Agree to Send Proposed Austro-German Accord to Hague Tribunal

GENEVA, May 18.—(AP.)—Germany and Austria, France, Great Britain and Italy today agreed to submit the proposed Austro-German customs accord to the League Court at The Hague for an advisory opinion as to its legality.

Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, proposed the move, pointing out that legality of the accord was questioned under the treaty of St. Germain and the Geneva protocol of 1922.

Aristide Briand agreed for France to submit the issue to the court, but he reaffirmed his country's objections to the union on the ground that it compromised Austria's economic freedom and violated the two treaties.

GERMAN DEFENDS POSITION

Dino Grandi, the Italian foreign minister, agreed for his nation, asserting that it is not always possible to distinguish between political and economic elements.

Julius Curtius, for Germany, defending his own position, reiterated that the arrangement does not threaten Austria's independence, but pledged Germany to Henderson's proposal.

Dr. Johann Schober, Austria's gray-haired foreign minister, agreed to the proposal, but placed a spirited defense of Austria's integrity on the record.

The two Germanic states agreed to go no further with their negotiations pending the League Court decision which is expected some time during the summer, before the council meets again in September.

Briand Resignation Expected Soon

PARIS, May 18.—(AP.)—Government officials believe Aristide Briand will resign from the cabinet when he gets back from Geneva Thursday.

He offered his resignation as foreign minister last week, after he had been defeated in the presidential election, but his associates persuaded him to remain in that post until his work at Geneva was concluded.

The resignation was not withdrawn, only tabled.

ANOTHER SLAIN IN RUM FEUD

MASSILLON, O., May 18.—(AP.)—A gangster's gun brought death early today to William "Bill" Kirkillis, 38, reputed chieftain of a bootleg ring who, police said, had vowed venegeance for the death of a henchman slain four days ago.

Kirkillis was just starting his automobile after leaving an apartment house when a man, concealed in the doorway of a nearby building, fired four times. One of the bullets struck Kirkillis in the right side, passing through his heart.

The slaying of Kirkillis and that of Jim Speros, Canton underworld character, last Friday, were believed by police to be the outgrowth of warfare between two rival gangs of Massillon and Canton.

Speros had been looked upon in the underworld as a federal "tipster," police said. He had been mentioned as an informer for Don R. Mellett, Canton vice crusading editor who was slain four years ago.

Named College Head Quits Laymen Body

BOSTON, May 18.—(AP.)—The Rev. Horace Westwood, of this city, national mission preacher for the Unitarian Laymen League since 1917, who has been chosen president of the Pacific Unitarian School for the Ministry at Berkeley, Cal., today announced his resignation from the league staff.

Dr. Westwood, a native of England, where he was a pastor at the age of 16, plans to establish an order of Unitarian mission preachers, primarily to train men for the mission work of the Laymen's League.

William Rhall, 42, of No. 6 Engine Company, suffered a laceration of the head yesterday afternoon when struck by falling plaster while fighting a chimney fire in the Seventh United Presbyterian Church, 215-17 Forty-fourth street. Capt. Rhall was taken to Mercy Hospital where three stitches were placed in his head. Later he was taken to his home, 1928 Antietam street.

PENNA. BANNER GIVEN OFFICER OF NAUTILUS

Girl Presents Official Flag To Polar Submarine Man For Governor, Legislature

By HERMAN GIESKE

NEW LONDON, May 18.—On behalf of Gov. Pinchot and the Pennsylvania Legislature, the official flag of that state was today presented to Lieut. Clarence D. Holland, retired member of the American Navy and assistant chief electrician of the trans-Arctic submarine Nautilus.

The presentation was made by Miss Mildred Keiser, who traveled from her home in Lykens, Dauphin County, Pa., to stand aboard the Nautilus and hand the blue silk banner to Lieut. Holland at the United States submarine base here.

A resolution of the Pennsylvania Legislature hailed the Wilkins-Ellsworth expedition as one holding great scientific possibilities, and complimented Lieut. Holland on being a member. The resolution said in part:

"This intrepid pioneer of undersea exploration is undertaking an experiment which will be of great scientific value. It is fitting that the commonwealth of Pennsylvania recognize the contribution of its citizenship to the expedition.

"Resolved, that his excellency, the Governor, be authorized to present the flag of the commonwealth to Clarence D. Holland as evidence of the interest in the success of the expedition and to wish him God-speed on his adventure into the unknown."

CHESTER CHARTER

ENGINE TAKEN FOR RIDE

So, early this morning, he climbed aboard a locomotive in the Twenty-eighth street yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad and started out to see the world, railroad detectives reported to Wilkinsburg police.

Walter Gallagher, assistant foreman in the yard, heard the engine laboring as if under a heavy load.

Gallagher said he scrambled into the cab and found Charter, already 50 yards from where he had boarded the engine, running it full speed ahead but with all brakes set.

The foreman called railroad detectives, who turned Charter over to Wilkinsburg police, who held him as drunk and disorderly.

WORD BARRAGE IN DRY WAR

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(INS.)—Oratorical outbursts on the prohibition front today brought a boast from the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union that anti-drys were ignominiously defeated in 1931 state legislatures and a claim by Crusaders that illiteracy flourishes most in the "bone dry" states.

The W. C. T. U., reviewed actions of state legislatures in the past 10 years, concluding there has been a steady tendency to strengthen, instead of weaken, state enforcement and prohibitory acts.

Predicting eventual end of prohibition, the Crusaders said there is "increasing revolt" in the 12 dry states against prohibition and that illiteracy in these states declined from an average of 4.1 to 3.1 per cent from 1920 to 1930.

One Port Sends 15 Tons Opium in Single Year, League Group Reveals

By WINIFRED BLACK

GENEVA, May 18.—What's the use of making all this fuss about dope?

Read the new report of the League of Nations' advisory committee on the opium traffic, and you may possibly get a faint idea of what is back of the narcotic conference in Geneva this month.

Here's one of the things that report tells in calm, plain English, with every figure verified over and over again. From the one single port of Bushire, 15 tons of opium went out to New York in one single year.

ALL FOR NEW YORK

That's the opium that was prepared and sent out "legitimately." And sent to New York alone, mind you. Nobody has printed the account of the number of tons of this deadly poison sent out to other American ports in the last year, Boston, New Orleans, San Francisco and Seattle — what about them? Nobody knows officially—yet.

And this dope is all sent legally, openly, and above board. What about the rest of the hideous poison that leaks into America by a thousand secret channels, day and night, month in and month out, all around the year?

Remember that one ton of opium and morphine is enough for all the legitimate uses of medicine for one year.

SENT ON MANY SHIPS

Besides the 15 tons sent out to America as gaily as so many bushels of corn, or honest health-building wheat, the port of Bushire sent in all 382 tons of dope. They sent it on British ships, Chinese ships, German ships, and on any kind of ship they wanted to use. They don't even try to deny it. Three hundred and eighty-two tons of Persian opium out of one port.

And this is just Persia talking. They raise opium in Turkey, and in India, and the Straits Settlements, too—what becomes of all that?

One ton of morphine represents a good deal over 100,000,000 doses —who's taking all that morphine? Who's buying it first, and who is selling it afterward?

LOST DOPE NOT COUNTED

This is all without counting the dope that is "lost" on its way to hospitals and drug stores and factories.

And the innocent little esters, nothing but morphine under a different name, are just tiptoeing through the tulips without even a shame-faced attempt at an apology.

In India the natives are adding cocaine to their terrible addiction. The authorities have seized 922 pounds of cocaine in the last year, a rise of seven times its own amount in one year. The Egyptians are being flooded with European and Persian and Turkish morphine and hasheesh, and South American cocaine.

Just about time for a dope conference, isn't it? Let's watch the narcotic conference at Geneva and see what the delegates there are going to say about it.

British Air Base Site Spoiled By Snails

LONDON, May 18.—(AP.)—The Daily Mail says in a dispatch from Basra, Irak, that snails compelled the British Royal Air Force to abandon its base at Lake Habbaniya, near Bagdad.

The site of the intended camp was found to swarm with myriads of snails which carried germs of the disease, bilharziasis which British troops during the World War dubbed "Bill Harris." It is more commonly known as schistosomiasis.

The correspondent said Basra now would probably be chosen as the site for the base.

Family Returns, Finds Home Burned

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., May 18.—(AP.)—Donald Hess and family, of Sonestown, returned yesterday to find their house destroyed by fire. Hess estimated damage at $5,000. Origin of the blaze was undetermined.

YOUTHS RESCUE BOYS IN RIVER

HARRISBURG, May 18.—(AP.)—After a stiff battle against a swift current in the Susquehanna River several miles below this city, two 18-year-old boys rescued Patrick Coomer, 11, and Donald Schlusser, 8, who had set out in a rowboat from an island here with only a broken canoe paddle for an oar.

The boys were rescued in a channel between an island and the west bank of the river. They had left the island here shortly before dark, but night had fallen before they were reached. Between Harrisburg and the place where the older boys, Ralph Williams and George Denk, found them, they had gone over a dam, and their boat was half filled with water.

In water 25 feet deep, Williams and Denk pulled the younger boys into their boat, and then, rowing against the current, took them to shore.

DEAF TO HEAR TALKIE PLAYS

LOS ANGELES, May 18.—(Universal.)—Ten million deaf or partially deaf persons in the United States will very shortly be able to enjoy "talkie" pictures, sermons or stage shows to the same degree as those with normal hearing.

This was the promise made today by Dr. Lee DeForest, noted radio and talking picture engineer, in announcing a new "theaterphone" invention to be installed for the benefit of deaf persons.

A small microphone, which covers the ordinary range of the human voice and musical tones, is placed near the sound horn back of the screen. Wires are attached to certain seats. The deaf patron obtains a small "listening stick" with receiver attached from the box office, plugs in at the seat connection and hears every whisper from the screen.

Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18. — The corporations controlled through entire stock ownership by Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., earned at the rate of $4.29½ per share during the year 1930, upon the 2,000,000 shares to be outstanding presently. Par value is $25. These figures were made public today upon receipt of final audit.

Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., recently announced that earnings for the first quarter of 1931 amounted to $1.44 a share on the Class A shares, against a dividend requirement for the same period of 43¾ cents.

These figures, during a depression period, are pointed to by the company as an example of the stability of the well-managed newspaper as an investment medium.

Net earnings for the past five years have averaged annually three times requirements for dividends on the 2,000,000 Class A shares to be presently outstanding. First-quarter earnings for 1931 show 3.3 times dividend requirements for the period covered, despite the general tendency of many large industrials toward decreased income.

The Class A shares of Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., carry a preferred and cumulative dividend of 7 per cent, or $1.75 per share annually. In addition it has a participating feature allowing Class A shareholders to share in extra dividends, as declared up to another 3 per cent.

Besides the large public participation in these shares, an increasing percentage of the employes of the various Hearst enterprises have acquired a financial interest in Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., through an employe ownership plan inaugurated last year.

BOULDER CITY TO BAN RUM

WASHINGTON, May 18. — (Universal.) — Prohibition law violators will be denied permits to do business or to obtain leases for homesites in Boulder City, Nev., the community which soon will begin rising around the great Boulder Dam project on the Colorado River, the Interior Department announced today.

Aiming to make Boulder City a model city through its control of all of the land surrounding the world's highest dam under construction there the department made public terms upon which leases will be issued.

Only citizens of the United States will be granted permits to do business in the city, which will be governed by regulations of the Interior Department—an innovation in American politics. Over 3,000 persons in all parts of the United States already have expressed desires to engage in business in this new town.

Salary Cut Looms For Japan Officials

TOKIO, May 18. — (AP.) — Under a new tentative agreement between Premier Wakatsuki and cabinet ministers, approval will be asked for a salary reduction for officials. CATHOLIC NEWS CHIEF DIES

WASHINGTON, May 18. — (Universal.)—Justin McGrath, 64, for more than 30 years a prominent newspaperman, and the organizer and for 11 years director of the National Catholic Welfare Conference News Service, died yesterday at a sanitorium in Clifton Springs, N. Y.

McGrath was a native of St. Louis, where the body will be taken for funeral services and burial. He served as managing editor, editorial writer and special correspondent for some of the prominent newspapers of the country. Later he was selected by the National Catholic Welfare Conference to organize a Catholic news service, with headquarters in Washington.

After newspaper work in St. Louis, Washington and Albany, N. Y., McGrath joined the New York American as its city editor for six years, then becoming successively its managing editor and chief of editorial staff. He was later chief of the Universal Service bureau in Washington and managing editor of the San Francisco Examiner.

During the peace conference after the World War he went to Europe to take charge of news service for all Hearst papers and Universal Service. Returning, he served as editorial correspondent here for all Hearst papers and Universal Service until 1919.

FRAT'S CLOSING PARTY SEQUEL

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 18.—(AP.)—The Sigma Delta Phi Fraternity yesterday closed its house on the University of Michigan campus until next fall. The announcement was made by Harold Golds, attorney for the chapter, who gave no definite reason for the action but intimated word had come from university officials that the house would be closed unless that action were taken voluntarily.

Dean Joseph A. Bursley referred all questioners to Golds, who is an alumnus member of the fraternity. Unofficially, it was said a party had been given at the house in April at which liquor was served.

The disciplinary action threatened by the university is similar to that taken in the cases of five fraternities whose houses were closed last winter after police raids had disclosed quantities of liquor on the eve of the annual J-hop.

VIRGINIA VASELOU

Girl, 17, Tells Police Here Of Career as 'Hobo'

A 17-year-old girl who, according to police, had been living the life of a hobo, riding freight trains, since she left her home in mountains of West Virginia, was being held in the matron's department of Central Police Station today on a vagrancy charge.

The girl, Virginia Vaselou, who said her home was in the mountains near Fairview, W. Va., was arrested last night as she sat on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks under the Sylvan Avenue Bridge.

Police, summoned by telephone, found the girl at "dinner" consisting of a piece of ring bologna and a bun. Dark-haired and brown eyed, her clothes showing the effects of rough travel, the girl told Sergt. John Novak at Hazelwood Police Station that she had been traveling the hobo route since she was driven from home by her stepfather.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

NEW YORK, May 18.

MY DESK IS DIRTY. There's no question about it. Letters are piled all around the place. It stands to reason that I should clean up a little before leaving for the day. O, well—if it must be done, I'll have to do it. You might as well look in as I go through the job.

Here's a copy of the Billboard for January, 1927. Not much sense in keeping that, is there? Wonder why I kept it so long? There must be something in it that I wanted to save. Nope. I've just looked through it for 20 minutes. I can't find a thing. But maybe I'd better keep it just a little longer anyway.

Ah, here's something. A Christmas card. It's from—as it says—a brother Rambler. They tell me that I am a Rambler, although just exactly what that means I do not know. The organization was started as a gag several years ago by Clark and McCullough when they appeared in a production called "The Ramblers."

They placed several hundred names on a sheet and informed us we were all brother Ramblers. Evidently, many people took it seriously—for every Christmas, hundreds of cards arrive at this desk from brother Ramblers. And strangely enough, the only Ramblers who do not send any cards are Clark and McCullough, the organizers!

* * *

Ah, here's something. A gag from Fred Allen, brightest of the comedians and a Godsend to the columnists.

"Believe it or not," writes Fred, "Scotch Siamese twins are closer than those of any other nation."

Wonder why I didn't run that before? Silly of me. I've run so many gags that are worse.

Here's a nice letter on blue stationery. It's from Nat Lewis, Inc. Wonder what Nat wants?

"Dear Mr. Hellinger," it reads. "May we respectfully call your attention to the fact that you still owe us $326.49 on your account of last December? May we also—"

That'll be just about enough of that. What do these fellows think I am—made of money? I think I'll do what Will Morrisey does. Whenever Will gets a bill, he looks at it and tears it up. Then he sighs with relief.

"There," he murmurs happily as the pieces drop to the floor. "I'm certainly glad that's paid."

Here's a letter from a lonesome little lady. She wants to know if I will be so good as to print the fact that she's going around with somebody else because she wants to make her real boy friend jealous. Nothing doing, lady. That might lead to marriage—and marriage is a very serious thing. Or am I wrong again?

What's this? Something I overlooked before? A note from a Miss Sadie Goldstein.

"Dear Mark," she writes. "I noticed in the papers some time ago that Edison was going to make rubber out of goldenrod. Won't that be stretching things a bit too far?"

That's a terrible gag, Miss Goldstein. Get over in that corner and stand with Fred Allen. . . .

* * *

Now here's something. An unopened telegram. That's a fine thing to have happen. Telegrams are sometimes most important. They should never be left unopened—unless the wife is in Atlantic City and you think she might wire for money.

Who knows what this one contains? Maybe it's an offer from Sam Goldwyn asking me to come to California and replace Ronald Colman or Bull Montana. Maybe it's a wire from Dick Richards in Detroit telling me Uncle Bertram has died and left me 40 or 50 million dollars. Maybe——

No. I was wrong. It wasn't anything very important. Just an invitation from the management of the Green Pig, in Greenwich Village. They would like me to attend the opening of their new show next Thursday evening. Now that's a strange thing. I thought the Green Pig was closed some time ago. Oh, now I understand. This explains everything. The telegram is dated 1929 . . .

* * *

And now it's getting late. And I'm at the end of the column. And the letters are still piled high. And the desk is still dirty. O well. I'll call it a day anyhow.

In case of real necessity, I feel the Board of Health can always be called in . . .

HOOVER SEES BIG SAVING

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(A.P.)—The presidential pencil of economy is expected to strike $17,000,000 or more from expenses of the Interior Department for the next three years.

For the second consecutive weekend President Hoover returned from his Rapidan (Va.) camp, convinced that a saving could be made in a government department. Last week the War Department was considered and a decision reached for the abandonment of numerous obsolete army posts and a concentration of activities.

On his trip to Virginia, the President was accompanied by Mrs. Hoover, his son, Herbert, Jr., and the latter's wife. It was the first time the younger Hoover had been to Rapidan since he went to Asheville, N. C., last year for treatment for incipient tuberculosis. Secretary Wilbur and other Interior Department officials also were present.

Being Rich Is Poor Fun

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

All these influential emigrants are bankers, brokers and high-powered ticker tapers.

Wall street has been acting very tremorish lately and the same recipe for the war holds good for the street. If you ain't there when it happens what are you going to tell your grandchildren?

Something new breaks every second. Why, last year a broker wouldn't call you a half-wit because he figured you would go lower.

Now, things are better. But you must be in the office early when the telephone rings.

That's why brokers are using airplanes, fast motor boats and motor cars to get to work before the phone buzzes the knell of breaking day.

They fly, swim and scramm to get there on time, with allowances for traffic lights, blowouts, flattening pedestrians and other unavoidable incidents.

They get to the office on the dot. The telephone rings. And after all that hustling what do you think they say?

"Tell him I ain't here."

They rush to the office to get to the telephone to tell a man they ain't in the office.

Well, that's life. It's made up of more things than animal crackers and pearl-buttoned spats. The Wall street man wants to get to town because he fears he may miss something.

And no matter where he is, in town, lurking in the suburbs or up to his neck in a barrel of pickled herring, he knows it ain't going to miss him.

That's why we have never been jealous of those Wall streeters with all their millions. Here today, gone tomorrow and no rain checks.

LOEW'S TO BAN SCREEN ADS

Declaring commercial advertising on the motion picture screen to be unfair to audiences, Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, Inc., operating hundreds of theaters, today issued an official statement in New York that his theaters would continue to refuse screen advertising. A copy of the statement was received here by Manager H. M. Addison, of Loew's Penn Theater. As president of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, one of the leading producing companies, Mr. Schenck said that his studios would not produce films subsidized by commercial advertisers.

Schenck further revealed that he is making a determined effort to convince other producers and operators of theater circuits that screen advertising is a menace to the motion picture industry and should be barred by all first-class theaters.

In addition to being an annoyance to audiences, who pay money for entertainment alone, Schenck points out that he is opposed to screen advertising because it constitutes competition with newspaper advertising and he believes this unfair in view of the editorial friendship toward the motion picture evidenced by most newspaper publishers.

EGYPT CLASHES TAKE LIFE TOLL

CAIRO, Egypt, May 18.—(AP.)—Nine persons were killed and 30 wounded in election disturbances during the week-end.

The most serious disorder was a fight between troops and rioters at Mitgamr, in lower Egypt, after the beating to death of a sub-commandant of police. The soldiers fired into the crowd, killing six persons and wounding 23.

One British subject was killed in Cairo, and one of two rioters injured in the Saida Zeinab quarters died later. Police fired into a group of demonstrators there after the unruly crowd had started throwing stones.

The clashes were due to tension existing between the government of Premier Sidky Pasha and a coalition of Wafdists (Nationalists) and Liberals.

MYSTERY FIRES SWEEP JAPAN

TOKIO, May 18.—(AP.)—A mysterious series of fires which recently have caused much loss of life and property damage continued during the week-end with four more outbreaks in different parts of the country.

Fourteen persons were burned to death and 180 injured, 30 seriously, when they were trapped in a blazing motion picture theater in the town of Kanekemachi, in the prefecture of Gumma.

When the fire started, 800 persons, most of them women and children, stampeded for the exits. Many were crushed in the frantic rush, and others were left to perish in the flames.

At Niigata 70 houses were burned yesterday. Twenty-one firemen were injured when their fire engine skidded into the river. Six hundred houses at Akita, on the northwest coast of Nonshiu, were reduced to ashes by a fire. Another fire destroyed 700 buildings in Matsue City, Honshu.

Radio Captures Burglar For Policemen

CHICAGO, May 18.—(AP.)—A good way to catch a burglar is to let him catch himself.

That's what the police said in commenting on the case of Charges Miller, 65, whom they formally charged last night.

While prowling in the home of Andrew Matlik, Miller attempted to open a drawer in a bureau. The drawer stuck. Miller tugged, overlooking the fact there was a radio on top. It fell, striking him on the head.

YOUNG PRAISES U. S. AIRWAYS

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(AP.)—Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce in charge of aviation, has informed President Hoover that the federal airways system is superior to any in the world.

When completed, he said, the system will total about 25,000 miles of lighted airways, equipped with every practicable aid to air navigation.

Young said progress in air transport operations has been most gratifying. Operation figures show that within the last year a total of 40,080,000 miles had been flown; 418,000 passengers carried, and 9,100,000 pounds of mail, and 3,250,000 pounds of express transported through the air.

A total of 650 aircraft, valued at $14,000,000, are now being employed by 44 companies on 125 routes in the United States, and to Canada and Central and South America.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Girl Says That Sidewalk Romeos Are Insulting

Are pretty girls insulted—even though they don't invite it—?

Carmela said they were—

"And she's certainly right!" agrees Minta, giving the Big Boys a dirty look. "If a girl is good looking and attractively dressed, these so-called men remark about her and insult her. But—if she is dressed inexpensively, and isn't so attractive—then, they make fun of her!"

All of which seems to indicate that the poor gals get it both going and coming . . .

Girl Disagrees

But somehow—it sounds kinda phony to us. We've known flocks of cute kids . . . and flocks not so cute, and—

But here's Minta herself. Get in on an earful, and tell us what you think—

"Dear Miss Martin:

"I've read your answer to Carmela, the girl with the 'too beautiful face' and I am right here to say that I certainly do not agree with you—especially when you say that 'only those who invite insults receive them.'

"That certainly gives me a good laugh! 'Think insults and you'll get 'em!' Yeh! Well, maybe girls didn't get insults in your day, but I sure would like to be able to keep track of the times I've been insulted, both day and night, when I was both with and without my mother. Oh, no! A girl doesn't get insulted when some fellow is with her . . . but that's the only time. Just let her walk down the street with another girl—or alone, and I'll bet she gets an insult on every block she walks.

Approached on Street

"I know, because I get them plenty, and I'm no beauty, either. When I go to work in the morning I'm not thinking of men or insults or the like. I'm thinking of the work I have to do, or maybe of my husband. But that doesn't stop these men from approaching me—or many of the girls I work with, either. We not only get insulted on the streets, but also 'hoo-hooed' at from windows, and whistled at from machines or street cars.

"And how well I remember the time my mother and I had to call on a policeman in order to be let alone on the street, and we certainly weren't out inviting any insults.

"If a girl is dressed attractively, and is good looking, these so-called men remark about her and insult her. But if she's dressed inexpensively, and isn't so attractive, then they make fun of her.

"Not long ago we had a place open in our office for a stenographer. Two girls applied. One rather hard on the eyes, but with a nice personality and brains. The other was about 18, blonde, easy to look at, but dumber than I thought they ever came. She got the job . . . and lasted three years . . . but not because of her work! She'd giggle at anything, and make eyes at everybody.

"Finally, she got married. Now we have a girl not so pretty, but who knows her work. Beauty certainly does go a long way. And I know the way some girls use it is a 'pain in the neck,' just as you say. But when you say 'Just think insults and you'll get them' . . . Well, personally, I think you're all wet!

"MINTA."

Chip on Shoulder

Well, maybe, lady. Maybe. But despite your protestations, I suspect that inviting insults is exactly what you do! No, I don't mean that you go around making eyes at the Big Boys. But I do suspect that you're constantly wearing a chip on your shoulder . . . that when you walk down the street, the whole of you says "I dare you to speak to me, you big bum!" And being only human, the gents take up your challenge.

But maybe I'm wrong. Maybe Big Bad Men are out to devour Patsy Cutie . . . What do you think, Flossie? Clara? Annabel? Do you get insulted when you step out in your glad rags—or don't you?

Tell us about it. We're waiting.

The Worn Lining

If last winter's coat is all right for wear except that inevitable place in the lining around the cuffs, buy some ribbon either in the same color or in a contrasting shade, loosen the lining around the cuff and stitch the ribbon over the worn section. Tack back the ribbon at the edge of the cuff and the job is done at a minimum of labor and cost. Worn places under the arm may easily be mended by means of a false shield of the new material, completely covering the worn places of the old.

Prejudice Greater Difficulty to Overcome Than Poverty, Says Fay King

I'D LIKE TO GO SOMEWHERE AND MAKE GOOD ON MY OWN, BUT FATHER INSISTS THAT I GO INTO HIS FIRM
WEALTH AND FAMILY NAME ARE HARD TO HURDLE TO SUCCESS
FAY KING
BEAUTY CAN BE AS MUCH OF A HANDICAP AS A HELP
THE BOSS'S SON IS STARTIN' HERE NEXT WEEK! JUST ANOTHER RICH SAP! PRETTY SOFT FOR THEM GUYS!
YEAH! AN' DON'T IT GIVE YOU A PAIN THE WAY THE MANAGER HIRES ANY DUMBELL IF SHE'S PRETTY!
PREJUDICE IS OFTEN HARDER TO OVERCOME THAN POVERTY

By FAY KING

Prejudice is a greater difficulty to overcome on the road to success than poverty.

That is why I also root for the ambitious young man who is too rich and the ambitious girl who is too beautiful.

Theirs is as admirable a battle as that of the poor boy and the plain girl who make good.

In fact it is a little harder if anything, because we are all inclined to believe in and help the humble who have high hopes, while we are all inclined to underestimate the sincerity and merit of the young man who has great family influence and fortune and the girl whose beauty attracts first and whose ability is appreciated as secondary.

They need your encouragement!

Junior's Absurd Jealousy Comes to Surface With a Bang!

I flushed at Lillian's raillery on my fussiness over the Christmas tree trimmings, but laughed easily as well. For I knew that long ago both Lillian and Dicky had commended whole heartedly my scheme of Christmas tree decoration, and that it suited their artistic instincts. My father, my small son, Katherine and even my captious mother-in-law also approved. I was not so sure about Katie. I believed that secretly she would have preferred a gaudier tree, and one which held all the colors of the rainbow and their modifications, to this in which the strands of the electric lights were holly red, the green of the tree itself, the clear white of the ordinary globe and a deep, dark lovely blue, and in which almost every ball and ornament was of the same deep shade of holly red. Only what Lillian called the "junket," of strippler fruit, tiny reindeer and miniature Santas without which no tree for children would be complete, departed from the color scheme, and these always I selected with care so that nothing would jar the color harmony.

"I know you'll guard the bridge for me instead of with me," I said, and turned to where Marion stood with Junior and Roderick. Junior was holding fast to her hand.

"Oh! Mums, Marion is going to help me and Rod hang up our stockings."

"Rod and me," I said mechanically, but Junior was too excited to notice the correction I really had not meant to make.

"She says she can wait till Grandpa finishes the story," he said, with a Shylockian insistence upon every ounce of flesh promised him. "And Mums, can't we have some golf stockings of Uncle Harry's? Aunt Lillian says they're the biggest of anybody's."

"Yes, if you like," I assented, and Marion caught him and Roderick by either hand.

"Come on, ask him," she said, and went over with them to where big Harry Underwood was standing.

"Better take a pair apiece," he boomed, when Marion had put the request, but as I shook my head violently at him, he hedged quickly.

"Come to think of it, I've only one pair without holes," he amended with a malicious grin at Lillian. "But you're welcome to them. Do you know where to find them, Marion?"

"Surest thing you know, Dad," she answered, giving him a little affectionate pat on the arm, and as she danced away with Junior and Roderick, I saw him straighten his shoulders, almost as if he had received an accolade. Then he looked at Lillian and the proud joy in both pairs of eyes gave me a renewed assurance that this was a problem no longer. No daughter of his own flesh could be more fond of him, to all appearances, than this adored child of Lillian's who had so resented her stepfather's appearance in her mother's life.

"How about it, Madge?" Dicky drawled. "Do you need me any longer on the Christmas tree? The lights are all connected, and you have to boss the rest of the job, anyway."

"I've taken over the job, temporarily," Lillian informed him airily, "and what I don't want nothing else but is either you or Harry cluttering up the atmosphere. Go and have a Christmas smoke, both of you. It will keep you quiet."

"Suppose we get our mutual Christmas presents?" Dicky drawled.

"No you don't," Lillian and I exclaimed as with one voice. "That's a ceremony for the morning," Lillian continued. "We want the children to see you doing that time-honored stunt."

"All right, all right," they agreed testily, and then they went upstairs, to Dicky's room.

Father and I went back to the library where a minute later Marion came with Junior and Roderick trotting after her, each bearing one of Harry Underwood's imported golf stockings.

It was at least 10 minutes before the stockings, according to a rite observed by Junior every Christmas we had spent in the farmhouse, were depending side by side from the mantel fastened to a cord cunningly arranged by my father and Marion. Then we all settled down to hear the rest of the Christmas carol, for I did not intend to leave my small son again until he was safely in Katherine's care upstairs. I wanted to take no risk of grieving his sensitive little soul by Marion's departure, or the reappearance of Ronald on the scene before Junior went upstairs.

The story came to an end at last and Junior repeated as he always does when he heard it, Tiny Tim's blessing "God bless us every one." Then he jumped up and threw his arms around me.

"This has been the bulliest Christmas Eve, ever," he said. "Come on, Rod, let's go up to bed now. Mums, can Marion come up and help you tuck us in after we get undressed? She doesn't have to go back yet, with this sap, do you, Marion?"

How to Keep Well

Rays of Sun Help in Treatment of Sinus Ills

Sinus disease is one of the most prevalent and common of body disorders. Though no actual figures have been compiled, so far as I know, its prevalence at times is appalling.

Dr. Copeland

At least one person in every family seems to be the victim of this complaint. What can the reason be and how can we prevent this annoyance?

Sinus disease is usually the result of neglected head colds. It often follows sore throat, ear disease, grippe, bronchitis, pneumonia or any infection of the upper air passages.

There are four pairs of cavities or sinuses found in the head. All these are accessory air passages and open into the nose. They are the frontal, the ethmodial, the sphenoidal and the antrum, the last also called the maxillary sinus.

If one of these chambers becomes blocked, either by mucus or by other debris, it soon becomes infected. Then we have "sinusitis," inflammation of the sinus.

As a rule, there is severe headache and constant nasal discharge. Though the condition is not a fatal one, it is bad enough to make one's life miserable and unhappy. In addition, it lowers the vitality of the body, making it more susceptible to general infections and disease.

Sinus disease may follow infection of the root of a tooth. This is important in considering the prevention of the condition. The teeth should never be overlooked as possible causative factors.

Surgery may be indicated in some of these cases, but it should not be resorted to too quickly. Medical care and supervision in early cases of sinus disorders are usually quite enough. The chronic cases are more difficult to overcome.

If you are a sufferer from sinus disease, consult your physician. Have a careful examination made of all your teeth and sinuses. It is best to have X-ray pictures taken.

Plenty of nourishing food, fresh air and sunshine are imperative. Baking in the sun is one of the finest methods of treatment for sinus disorders. If possible, live for a time in a warm climate, above sea level and away from large bodies of water.

Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Hands that stay persistently rough and chapped will be soothed by the application of a tragacanth lotions, those milky liquids that disappear soon after they are put on.

Remember, candidate for pulchritude, that whenever any emollient is applied, the skin should be as dry as a bone. Creamy cosmetics, placed upon a moist skin, don't bring results. The cold rinsing should follow the facial bath when an astringent is to be used; the tepid rinsing is better when oily preparations are to be fed to the epidermis.

Be tranquil. Anger has an immediate effect upon the gastric juices. Digestion is impaired, the stomach sulks, appetite departs, nerves set up a howling. Fear, jealousy, all unpleasant emotions, develop palpitation of the heart, moisture and frigidity of the skin. Proof enough that mental and physical conditions are sympathetic, act upon each other. The calm manner thwarts Popper Time and wards off beauty ills.

Watch out that the brassiere is not too tight. The snug bandage brings pressure to delicate glands, restricts breathing capacity, throws the shoulders forward. A brassiere should be properly fitted, if it is to be worn with comfort and afford proper support for the breasts. Heavyweights will find the foundation garment more satisfactory than girdle and brassiere; it is more likely to hide away tummy rolls.

Correct Manners

Why Not "Dramatize" the Salad?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it correct to serve a very rich fruit salad at a party when the other food is to be baked ham, potato salad, olives, pickles, ice cream, cake, candy and nuts? Mother is very fond of this salad and it is to be a party given in her honor so don't you think it should be allowed? Of course, I want to have your opinion since I would not like to be criticised.

2. Do you think I should serve bread, tea biscuits, or would you suggest something else?

K. S.

1. I do think that this salad is a bit rich considering the other items of your menu. Since you are especially anxious to serve this salad why not make this the salad-dessert? That is, have the other items as you plan, and then serve your salad, with an accompanying bread-detail that is appropriate. Then omit the ice cream and cake. In other words, "dramatize" your salad, and omit the dessert.

2. Tea-biscuits, split and toasted, are good, very good. Or Swedish crackers, buttered and toasted, with the fruit salad, are good. Or any other kind of not-sweet wafer, buttered and toasted. The bread or biscuit or cracker that accompanies such a salad should be simple, and not sweet.

In England They Do It Differently

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When is it correct to use "Dear" in the heading of a letter and when is "My Dear" used?

Which is considered more formal?

FAITHFUL FOLLOWERS.

Although it has always seemed to be rather inconsistent, in this country it is considerer that "My Dear" is more formal than "Dear." The reverse holds true in England.

The Difference in Invitations

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

If a wedding is held in a church are all the invited guests supposed to attend the reception at the bride's parents' home? I'm not up to the fashionable doings. READER.

These two invitations are quite separate. The larger invitation (the double sheet) is usually used for the invitation to the wedding ceremony, in the church. Then, with this invitation is inclosed a card of invitation to the reception following the ceremony. The wording on the ceremony-invitation, if in church, reads "request the honor of your presence," and the invitation to the subsequent reception reads, "requests the pleasure of your company."

Ann Harding and Studio Expected to Iron Out Contract Disputes

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, May 18.

After all the talk, Ann Harding's new contract with Pathe isn't signed, or wasn't when this was written.

The deadlock is substantially where it was two months ago. Matters of salary are agreed upon, but the star objects to certain restrictive clauses. Now that Hiram Brown and David Sarnoff are in town, it is likely the disputed points will be ironed out.

Unless she signs the new contract, Ann will not make "The Little Flat in a Temple," or "Devotion," as it now is called. She thinks the story is all right if she is to do four pictures a year, but wants a stronger vehicle if she completes the old contract. This specifies no definite number, but gives her a voice in picking the stories.

Ann Harding

In the meanwhile, her disagreement with Charles Rogers continues to be a friendly one. Preparations are going right on for the filming of "Devotion," and the studio seems perfectly satisfied the new contract will be signed.

Ralph Spence, the writer, lives on a hillside. To start his lawn sprinkling system, he has to spin a large wheel that releases the water from a tank above. As he stood in the yard the other day spinning the wheel, a car careened to the curb and a drunken voice hailed him.

"Shaw, are you the guy who's turning thish street around?"

FRUITS OF LABOR

The first consignment of film taken by Douglas Fairbanks on his tiger hunt has arrived at the United Artists Studio. It is 20,000 feet, and includes most of the adventure. Doug's intent is to make a picture or a series of shorts from this celluloid record of his travels. He if succeeds he will have better luck than Norman Foster, of Paramount, whose travel films still are waiting for a taker.

Next year's program of United Artists calls for one picture each by Doug and Mary. Their friends rather expect them to come back from Europe with ideas for these pictures.

LATEST GOSSIP

Among the spring departures at Fox will be David Rollins, Glendale High School boy, who once was hailed as a discovery . . . The mother of a well known child star is of the species that hang around the set and drive directors crazy. Recently, she showed up at the beginning of a new picture with equipment to make hook rugs. Seized with a bright idea, the director made such a fuss over her skill that she now spends her days in a distant corner working furiously at her rugs . . . A bit of unexpected realism was injected into Universal's "East of Borneo" when Charles Bickford ran afoul of a crocodile on the back lot. Spring is mating season for these reptiles, and they are more than ordinarily snappish. The particular Romeo which Charlie disturbed grabbed the actor's boot and bit through to the leg. Charlie is sorry alligator bags are out of fashion . . . A certain feminine star recently had an embarrassing experience. Rising early in the morning before anybody else was on the beach, she swam a good way out, removed her suit and threw it on a raft. After she was tired of playing mermaid, she went back for it, but in the meanwhile a wave had played her an unfair trick. No barrels being handy, she swam as close to shore as possible and by loud hailing managed to inform her maid of her predicament. The maid swam out with another suit . . . Paul Lukas, who was a war-time aviator in Austria, will fly his plane to Seattle to spend several days with Eleanor Boardman and King Vidor on their boat . . . Unable to stay to see the finish of "The Whole Town's Talking," Junior Laemmle is having the last day's rushes shipped to him by airplane at Kansas City. They will arrive as soon as his train, and he will inspect them in the local Universal exchange.

A children's fund for free beds in the children's ward was started with a gift from two Butler boys. Mrs. Bennett Oliver was in charge, assisted by Mrs. Arthur M. Scully.

KEEP KISSABLE

. . . WITH OLD GOLDS
OLD GOLDS were created to give you THROAT-EASE . . . as well as a more delightful tasting cigarette. But the makers also considered your breath, your lips, your teeth, as well as your THROAT.
They created a pure-tobacco cigarette . . . free of coriander and other greasy artificial flavorings* that burn into clinging, staining, breath-tainting vapors.
To avoid unpleasant aftermaths, smoke pure-tobacco OLD GOLDS. Their clean, sun-ripened, natural-flavored tobaccos will be like honey to your THROAT. And they leave no objectionable odors either on your breath or clothing, or in the room.
HERE'S THE PROOF*
Open up a pack of OLD GOLDS and smell the tobacco. Do the same with any other cigarette. Judge for yourself which has the natural, pleasant, all-tobacco aroma. It's a favor to your family and friends, as well as to yourself, to smoke NATURAL-FLAVORED, pure-tobacco OLD GOLDS.

Things I Never Knew Till Now
(But which you knew all along!)

That you should not take alcohol when you are depressed. Alcohol itself is a depressor, you silly-willy!

That "Yankee Doodle" is not an original American tune. It was popular in Oliver Cromwell's time.

That kissing scenes are cut from all films sent to Japan because the Japanese do not kiss, the chumps!

That all Albinos die young—no exceptions.

That the sun wastes 30,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 horsepower each second. (Stick around! Why go to collitch?)

That the tough-guy expression, "Douse the glims," was first used away back—even Sir Walter Scott employed the crack.

That seven out of 10 centenarians are women!!!

That if you wash the nostrils, keep humming the letter "m" on the highest key possible. This safeguards your ears.

That the brown streak about the neck, caused by high collars, may be removed by the frequent use of cucumber juice.

That the N. Y. Telephone Co. charges $1 to restore disconnected service, though the expense is trifling. But the gas and electric companies perform similar service gratis, though their expense for same is enormous.

That when a bank fails in China they hang those responsible.

That in New York State one adult out of every 10 enters an insane asylum or a mental hospital before death. (See you there).

That the Laughing Jackass (Australian) is a bird.

That Winchell Avenue in Uniontown, Pa., according to a heckler, is a very short street that stops abruptly against a stone wall.

That the police in Washington are picketing the town's most famous speakeasy and when they ask patrons their names, said patrons invariably snarl: "Herbert Hoover," "Andy Volstead," or "The King of Siam."

That it is as hard to get a divorce there as here.

That when Jay E. House, the columnist for the Phila. Ledger, was elected mayor of Topeka, Kan., his first official act was to fire two lady cops for arresting a police reporter (under age) who smoked.

That in that well-known movie battle in which the mongoose kills the cobra, the result would have been different if, instead of an ordinary black cobra, a king cobra had been used—the latter being capable of destroying the toughest mongoose in 10 seconds, or less.

That carbolic acid is non-poisonous when mixed with alcohol.

That the Detroit motorcycle cops wear the duckiest bow ties, which are made of black leather. (And they club sandwiches!)

That Poe wrote the 16th stanza of "The Raven" before the first.

That in Buenos Aires they claim to have the original Columbus anchor in a museum. It is made of wood, bound with copper.

That the Argentine authorities get indignant if you assert "I'm an American!" A local who violated a traffic rule so boasted and he was crushed with: "You are a NORTH American. WE are Americans!"

That it was Thackeray who said: "Broadway has a rush of life such as I have never seen; the rush and restlessness pleases me."

That in da Vinci's painting of The Last Supper an ill omen may be seen, if viewed closely. Judas has spilled the salt.

That the New York State Board of Education refuses to sanction H. G. Wells' "Outline of History" as authentic. (It's grand, anyway!)

That John Montgomery Ward was the first ball player to write for the rags. And the first major league umpire is still living.

That it costs about $1,400 per hour to run Congress, and that the average session lasts five hours.

That Abraham Lincoln received a Broadway welcome in the manner that Lindbergh was received. No ticker tape snowfall, though.

That the oldest shop in New York is said to be the drug store at No. 6 Bowery, which is 126 years old.

That moving stairways, whose field of usefulness has been confined to department stores, will be installed in two new skyscraping office edifices to relieve the elevator traffic on the lower floors.

That in Scituate, R. I., you can't be arrested for drunkenness.

That at ancient Egyptian banquets it was the cheerful custom to drag a mummy in a car around the banquet hall while a servant monotonously cried: "To this estate you must come at last!"

That near Atlantic City, N. J., there is a town called "Whitestone," the population of which is 100 per cent cullud folks.

And among other cracks we wish we had written is Robert Shackelton's "New York is the diamond stickpin on the shirt front of America.

KLEIN UPHOLDS TIME SELLING

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(AP.)—The American development of installment plan sales was held last night by Assistant Secretary Klein of the Commerce Department to have created no economic danger.

In a radio address Dr. Klein said:

"As a system, it has now been put under the most grilling tests by a world business depression of almost unparalleled intensity and it has demonstrated its right to survive.

"This is one of the bright spots in the business picture today. So long as reasonable business precautions are being taken, we can abandon our concern over the future of industries which have associated their operation so closely with installment selling. Purchasers, on the whole, have demonstrated their ability to take care of it during a difficult business period, when unemployment was rife."

FUGITIVE BOY BANDIT CAUGHT

LONG BEACH, Cal., May 18.—(AP.)—Three days of stolen freedom have ended for Willie Soslofsky, 13, of New York, who escaped prison after confessing participation in 15 New York burglaries, five holdups in Los Angeles and two shootings.

The boy was surprised by detectives while strolling along Seal Beach, near here, with James Smith, 15, of Long Beach, who escaped with him from Juvenile Hall in Los Angeles last Thursday. Smith escaped. Soslofsky surrendered with a sheepish grin.

Soslofsky was arrested two weeks ago after he shot and seriously wounded Nicholas Duane, 15, of New York, his companion at the time he launched a criminal career here. The boys confessed shooting Ray Walters in a service station holdup. Walters recovered.

Courtauld Rescue Flier in Iceland

The Choral Society of the Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association gave its closing concert last night in the "Y" auditorium. A surprisingly large audience for so late in the season attended and applauded heartily the singing of its friends. Harvey Gaul directed.

J. Fred Lissfelt

Technically the chorus showed little improvement over its last concert, and in the Brahms "Song of Fate" was decidedly in need of more rehearsing. By far its best work came in Harvey Gaul's new Palestinian songs, delightfully colorful and melodic music which lies close to the heart of these singers. May we suggest that there be no more encores by the chorus; the audience finds them tiresome, the program is unduly prolonged, and on the repeat the singing is never so spontaneous.

Rena Kimball, Max Franklin, Bess English, Yettabel Rosenblum, Albert Eckstein, Caroline Himmelblau, and Dorothy Scott, members of the chorus, sang solo parts, Eckstein giving a most intelligent reading of a new work of Rosovsky, a leading Palestinian composer.

Rebecca Davidson, formerly a member of Pittsburgh's musical colony, appeared as piano soloist, offering a group of classical and a group of modern piano works. In the Galuppi Sonata she displayed a fine feeling for ornamentation as well as exceedingly refined sense of tone. The Schubert, too, was restrained. In spite of all the fine playing, Miss Davidson remains impersonal in her interpretations, and one could not help feeling that she had never taken part in those impassioned dances, which she played, of Albeniz, Godowsky and Liapounow.

Mrs. Leonard Balter played accompaniments for the chorus, and set many a striking rhythm.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Negro to Appeal Texas Election Ban

EL PASO, Tex., May 18.—(AP.)—A test of the 1926 Texas election law, which has resulted in refusal to allow Negroes to vote in Democratic primaries, will be carried to the United States Supreme Court.

Attorneys for Dr. L. A. Nixon, El Paso Negro, said they would appeal from an adverse decision in his case against election judges of El Paso, given by a Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans.

Woman Parachute Jumper Sets Mark

LEIPSIC, Germany, May 18.—(AP.)—Lola Schroeter-Vorescou, woman stunt flier, jumped 4,400 meters with a parachute yesterday, thereby breaking her previous women's record of 2,600 meters.

She was in the air for 18 minutes. It was her one hundred and nineteenth parachute jump.

British Secretary Denies He Will Quit

LONDON, May 18. — (AP.) — Lord Passfield, colonial secretary, described newspaper reports that he would resign at the end of the parliamentary session, as a "pure invention." He said: "I am 72, and I shall have to retire some time or another, but there is no foundation at all for this report."

CITY OPENS DRIVE ON DANGEROUS BUILDINGS

BURGLARS TAKE $800 LOOT IN HOME

6 Bandits Rob Warehouse, Tie Guard; Man Beaten By Thugs, Others Held Up

More than $800 worth of jewelry, clothing and furs were stolen from the home of Adolph Gleser, 7616 Tuscarora street, by burglars who gained entrance through a rear window, according to a report to detective headquarters today.

F. Corwin, 820 Maryland avenue, also reported that burglars who forced a cellar window of his home, took $10 in old coins, and smashed a child's bank from which they obtained $5.

City detectives and police today were seeking six bandits who held up George DeLols, night watchman of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company's warehouse, at Dallas avenue and McPherson boulevard, early yesterday and stole about 3,000 cartons of cigarets.

The thugs bound the watchman's hands and feet to a chair while they carted the loot away in a truck.

Four bandits robbed Joseph Corcoran, of 5309 Berlin way, of $12 near his home shortly after midnight Saturday. Another pedestrian, Harold Rosenbloom, of 2214 Beechwood boulevard, was robbed of $4.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., May 18.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Mighty exciting week-end out here, in this land of sunshine and second mortgages, with Aimee getting home and Clara Bow's life story starting in the papers. But do you know that I never saw people moving around as much. Every one of us hustling from bank to bank trying to renew our notes. A man has to be mighty careful nowadays or he will burn up more gasoline trying to get a loan than the loan is worth. One fellow paid the bank his interest out here the other day. The police heard about it, followed him, and, sure enough, he had been in some of the late robberies.

Avery Begs His Mother to Let Him Have a Few Years to Himself

By Fannie Hurst

(This famous story has been made into a talking picture by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with Marion Davies in the leading role.)

CHAPTER X.

Racing home from a charity bazaar, where she had raffled off character dolls with conspicuous success, to change her clothes for a tea dance at the St. Regence, a surprise awaited Jenny.

Avery was home.

An envelope addressed in his large free hand was handed her by the maid in the Breton cap. Dear Moth:

Hullo! Surprise, eh, what? I'll wait in my bedroom until you pop in on me.

AV.

Avery home!

A lump of mortification was in Jenny's very soul as she sped to her son. Was Avery ill? Crazy thought, but this was the first time she had seen Avery in the two months since—Ramon. Would he—could he—sense anything different? No. No. No. She need not reproach herself where her children were concerned. She had been plugging harder than ever for Avery's speedboat. Would—Avery—being home—make a difference to Ramon? He had never seen her with her boy. With Jennifer, now, it was different.

How annoyed Rarick would be if something only casual were bringing Avery home in the midst of his semester. He had come down so flatfootedly against it.

Jenny Is Excited

He was standing in a striped-flannel dressing-gown, tamping tobacco into his short-stemmed pipe, when his mother entered. The contents of a large pigskin bag, good accouterments, littered the room. A portable phonograph was open on the table, with a disk on, and a needle in position.

"Good for you, Mother! I was afraid it might not be you. Peacock tells me father often gets home nowadays around four."

"Avery, you're ill?"

"Nothing so pleasantly explanatory of my sudden return to the magnificient fold of the family," he said, giving his parent a lift off the floor as he kissed her.

"Avery, you're not in trouble of any sort?"

"Not the kind you think."

"What other kinds are there?"

"Deep psychological fee-fie-fo-fum ones."

"Avery, don't tell me you've started to be foolish about a girl—or anything like that," she cried, flashing a glance, even in the suspense of her sudden suspicion, to her wrist watch.

"No, I'm off women," he said, with elaborate grandeur and innocence of them, that made her take his long pale cheeks between her hands and kiss him.

"Darling, tell me what has brought you home in this sudden fashion. You know how set your father is against it, since all those supper dances we used to drag you in for. Tell me, son, I've only a moment between appointments."

"Mother, be a brick and cancel. How can I talk to you if you've only a moment? I must see you before father comes in. Please manage."

Ramon Impatient

She stood fluttering between her indecisions. After all, the important thing was that Avery was well. Some schoolboy predicament no doubt, that seemed enormous enough to the schoolboy living it. Ramon hated to wait. Waiting acted as an actual physical depressant upon him, from which he was slow to recover. Jenny had learned that.

Their most violent quarrel had resulted from her arrival twenty minutes late at a small tearoom in West Seventy-sixth street which they were beginning to frequent for its obscurity.

POLICE POWER INVOKED IN CAMPAIGN

Four Old Houses Are Razed, 13 Others Condemned; Clark in Favor of Program

A campaign to rid the city of dangerous and unsightly buildings has been started by H. L. Ley, superintendent of the Bureau of Building Inspection, who is studying reports from inspectors in all districts.

Four old houses have been razed in the last two weeks as an emergency measure, and 13 other dwellings have been posted for condemnation. This is considered only a start in a general drive to clean up old structures which are blighting neighborhoods.

Announcement of the campaign followed a Sun-Telegraph editorial which called attention to the possibilities for improving the appearance of the city by razing old dwellings. The accumulation of rubbish in alleys and vacant lots and the dirty condition of the streets in some districts also was discussed in the editorial and efforts will be made to improve conditions.

CLARK APPROVES

Director of Public Safety James M. Clark is strongly supporting Superintendent Ley in his drive on dangerous buildings. He said:

"I have been in favor of such a movement for some time. There are a lot of old buildings which are a menace and should come down. I believe that a campaign along these lines will be a fine thing."

The city has in some cases exercised police power to demolish dangerous buildings after notice to the owner. In many more instances, owners have found it to their advantage to tear down houses which have outlived usefulness.

An empty building deteriorates rapidly, according to Superintendent Ley. Once doors and windows are out, the house becomes a neighborhood nuisance. Beside the bad appearance, there is danger to children who play there.

LOSES VALUE

As the house becomes older its interior is stripped. Seekers after firewood attack it with axes and saws. The woodwork on the lower floors usually goes first, and the kindling gatherers rip off the siding and attack the two-by-fours in the wall until nothing is left but a frail skeleton.

J. C. Duffy, inspector, who handles all dangerous buildings, reports a house like this at 4626 Juniper street, Bloomfield. This FLINT, Mich., May 18.—(AP.)—Announcement has been made that city firemen and policemen had voted unanimously to accept a 6 per cent reduction in wages. The action, which was voluntary, will cut approximately $40,000 from the annual city payroll.

Previously, city school teachers had volunteered to forego scheduled salary increases which would have added $50,000 to the tax bill.

UNEMPLOYMENT INDEMNITY BILL BACKED AT LABOR MEET

75 UNIONS JOIN IN SUPPORT OF MEASURE

Father Cox Urges Passage; Hoopes Explains Plan To Provide for Jobless

Support for the Hoopes unemployment indemnity bill, pending in Legislature, was voiced at a mass meeting sponsored by the Pittsburgh Central Labor Union and the Socialist party of Pennsylvania yesterday in Moose Temple, Penn avenue. Representatives of more than 75 labor unions attended the meeting.

Patrick T. Fagan, district president of the United Mine Workers and president of the Pittsburgh Central Labor Union, presided. Speakers included the Rev. James R. Cox and Representative Darlington Hoopes.

COX BACKS BILL

Hoopes outlined the plan of his bill. He stated that the bill would provide for one-half of the funds of the unemployment insurance to be appropriated by the state. The amount would be raised by a 10 per cent tax on incomes of over $50,000. The other half would be raised by a tax levied upon employers, the rate to depend upon the size of their payrolls. The worker would pay none of the tax, he pointed out.

RELIEF METHOD

He outlined a method of relief for which his bill would provide. According to his plan, within a week of the time the worker was out of employment, if he were single, he would receive one-half of his usual salary from the fund.

Ten per cent would be added to the amount for married men, with an additional 5 per cent for each two children. He answered questions on the bill, and explained methods which would make it impossible for a man to refuse employment and still receive relief.

McClintock followed Shulkins in another car and forced him to the curb. Both men were wounded in the exchange of shots that followed. McClintock died from the wounds and Schulkins was traced to a cabin near Spruce Creek, Pa., where he was taken.

PHILADELPHIA, May 18.—(AP.)—Police in cities between Philadelphia and Montreal were asked today to search for Mrs. Margaret McCaffrey, 60, who left here Thursday to see her son in Montreal before he was hanged. She has not been seen since.

Tommy McCaffrey, the son, is scheduled to die on the gallows some time this week for the slaying of a Montreal man.

News of his impending death reached Mrs. McCaffrey only a few hours before she started for the Canadian city, members of her family said. They fear she may have lost her mind after leaving here.

2D CONTO DEATH TRIAL BEGINS

KITTANNING, Pa., May 18.—The second trial of Constable William D. Raper, charged with the murder of Joseph Conto, of Leechburg, who Raper is alleged to have taken for a ride, started here today before Judge J. Frank Graff.

building has been posted and will soon be razed.

Several fatal accidents have been caused as a result of persons being caught by falling walls from such houses. A brick house at 1821 Wylie avenue has a bulge of almost six inches in the front wall, Duffy said, and is a menace to pedestrians, as the wall may fall into the street any time. It has been condemned.

HUNT FOR OWNERS

It is difficult at times to find the owners of old buildings. Sometimes the owner is an estate with members in various parts of the world. The city, however, is prepared to go through the various legal forms necessary for condemnation. Often it is to the owner's financial advantage to remove a building.

An old house, no matter how dilapidated, is always assessed. A wrecker will often take down a building for the material that is in it. If the building is past the point of remodeling, it is better for the owner to have it off the tax books, and the entire neighborhood profits as a result of the removal of the unsightly house.

STUDENT FIRES BRING POLICE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 18.—(AP.)—Police reserves early today quelled several hundred pajama-clad students of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology who hampered firemen at work on three bonfires the students started.

Hose lines were wrenched from firemen, a nozzle was stolen and hidden, helmets were carried away and one fireman was locked in a dormitory basement.

Police laid the tumult to an overexuberance after two weeks intensive studying prior to final examinations.

The hilarity, lasting three hours, started when a group of students conceived the idea of starting the gasoline engine of a cement mixer used in constructing walks in the quadrangle. The explosions of the engine wakened fellow students in nearby dormitories.

YUKON ROBBERS GET 10 YEARS

A $4,000 mine payroll robbery, with Rural Mail Carrier Cyrus March the victim, today resulted in three of the robbers drawing sentences of 10 years in Atlanta Penitentiary, with a five-year parole at the expiration of the prison sentence. Another member of the gang was given five years and a five-year parole. All pleaded guilty to robbery and threatening a postal employe. Two of the men were given an additional five years on counterfeiting charges.

Those sentenced by Judge J. P. Schoonmaker to 10 years were Thomas E. Jennings, 50, of Monongahela and Canonsburg; Edward B. Smith, 26, of Library, and John C. Williams, 32, of Monongahela. Thomas Allen, 40, of Indianola, was given the five-year sentence. He was not a participant but he helped plan the robbery, it was testified. March was held up near Yukon on January 8.

The five-year parole was given to avoid a mandatory 25-year sentence for threatening the life of a postal employe.

Jennings and Allen, pleading guilty to counterfeiting, were given an additional five years. The government's case was prosecuted by Assistant Federal Attorney Zeno Fritz, and resulted in the heaviest sentence imposed in Federal Court for years.

TAX PAYMENT HELD UP

Collection of 1931 taxes by County Treasurer John Francies will not be undertaken for at least two weeks, due to the enactment of the 50-cent poll tax law in place of the graduated occupational tax. Exceptions will be made for persons who have special reasons for making early payment, these cases being handled individually. Due to the vast amount of work entailed in changing from one form of taxation to another, Treasurer Francies asks that taxpayers withhold their payments at present.

Samuel Eades, chief property assessor for the county, says that exonerations on the occupational tax are now being prepared by a large force of clerks. Within two weeks he expects all the exonerations to be completed, and then the matter will be handled in the county treasurer's office.

TAFT EXTOLS MANAGER PLAN

Attorney Charles C. Taft, II, nephew of the late Chief Justice William Howard Taft, spoke before the Chamber of Commerce today. He outlined the city manager plan in Cincinnati and cited its advantages. He said:

"We may have high ideals and so have many citizens of Pittsburgh, but unless we are ready to take time to organize the wards effectively, we might as well forget them.

"The group which has brought about the change in Cincinnati is comparatively small. Everyone of them is an idealist in the sense that he had the conviction that good government was possible.

"The most constant source of municipal corruption is contracts. All specifications are open under the city manager plan. More city work has been done better and supervised honestly. Civil service now is a fact and not a pious hope."

C. T. CLACK DIES; STEEL OFFICIAL

Mr. Clack, well-known locally, was formerly president of Milliken Brothers when that concern was merged with the Blaw-Knox organization. He leaves his widow, formerly Mildred T. Van Dyke, and a son, Jerry Clack.

OFFICER SHOOTS THEFT SUSPECT

Shot while fleeing police, Steve Kernich, 23, of 227 Merchant street, Ambridge, was in Sewickley Valley Hospital today suffering a bullet wound of the left leg.

Kernich was struck by a bullet fired, police said, by Patrolman James Aiello when he attempted to escape as the officer was bringing him to the police station for questioning in connection with robbery of the Leetsdale paint shop at Leetsdale.

COUPLE DROWN NEAR SAFETY

SPECULATOR, N. Y., May 18.—(INS.)—Elizabeth Eveleth, 24, daughter of an electric company executive, and Wayne S. Kobbe, 26, electric engineer, who were drowned Sunday in Sacandaka Lake, were within a few feet of safety when they sank, witnesses revealed today. They apparently were seized with cramps.

Mrs. C. E. Eveleth was in a party passing the week-end at the lake and was said to have seen her daughter perish with Kobbe after their small sail boat filled with water when caught in a squall.

Autos in Poland Shunned in War On Road Tax

WARSAW, Poland, May 18.—(AP.)—The motorless age returned to various parts of Poland today as private motorists observed a nation-wide strike as a protest against a road tax recently passed by Parliament to obtain funds for highway improvements.

Streets of the capital, Lodz, Poznan and Krakow were deserted so far as automotive vehicles were concerned with the exception of municipal buses and trucks which were kept running.

12 NATIONS JOIN IN PEACE FETE

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(INS.)—In an effort to promote universal peace, the World Federation of Education Associations today linked the nations of the earth by telephone to relay a message of goodwill through their school children.

This unique method of fostering peace found the goodwill message relayed through all the 48 states of the Union and across the Atlantic Ocean. A dozen nations joined in the ceremony.

Senator William E. Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, participated in the ceremony here.

BYRD ARRIVES FOR LECTURE

LAWRENCE TIBBETT, BERNICE CLAIRE ENTERTAIN ON RADIO

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

That 8:30 lineup tonight has us guessing. To play safe we would advise three separate radio sets, one tuned to KDKA, one to WCAE and another to WJAS. The Medal Express, Ferde Grofe and Lawrence Tibbett are the attractions. If you divide your time among them, don't miss Tibbett singing "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" and "Life Is a Dream." The more enthusiastic of our classical readers Bernice Claire will insist that you not miss Tibbett at all but that swift-moving Express and Ferde Grofe are stalwart rivals on any man's program. Have you heard Brad Browne as "Boss Baker?" Give him an ear WJAS at 9. Bernice Claire and Alexander Gray, stars of "The Desert Song," are the first to pinch-hit for the Revelers in the Family Party, WCAE at 9:30—and it looks to us like they'll come through with a home run! Guy Lombardo has worked busily a day and presents his musical picture of "Million Dollar Baby" for WJAS fans at 10.

QUESTION A DAY

Answer—Fan mail places Amos 'n' Andy first; Rudy Vallee second and Maurice Chevalier third. But fan mail is hardly an accurate barometer.

* * *

Charley Horn has become radio's Sherlock Holmes. He spends six to eight hours daily cruising New York streets in a motor truck recording where radio signals go and why. He has found that Wall street buildings have the greatest amount of absorption. Reception at the base of the Empire State Building is feeble, but at its peak is the best signal in New York.

STUDIO LIGHTS

Two tiger-striped kittens owned by Betty Whitehead at Charleroi have been dubbed "Jake and Lena"... and Betty's aunt, Mrs. H. Hugh Hill, pens that they are just about as crazy as the radio pair...

"Protect the birds," advised Peggy Winthrop the other morning. "The dove brings peace and the stork brings tax exemptions."

Ned W. Rankin, whose Langley High School Band gave an excellent WCAE concert yesterday, taught us geometry in Homestead High School...

James A. Farrell, steel magnate, is the drawing card on KDKA's "Salute" this Sunday...

No Weber and Fields this Saturday . . . they've changed their time to Monday, starting the twenty-fifth...

Julia Sanderson substituted for Bettina Hall on the "Chocolateers" last Friday because the Shuberts in New York demanded a "cut" from Bettina ... and Bettina said "No" . . .

Vaughn de Leath (WCAE 10:30) when 12 years old played the piano for nothing in a California movie house just to see "cowboys and Injuns" on the screen . . .

George Hicks and Ted Jewett have been commissioned to ride in an airplane with the Army raiders this week end . . . Six other announcers on skyscrapers are to assist them in a description of radio's greatest maneuver . . .

Gen. John J. Pershing is to speak from Paris over WEAF-WCAE next Tuesday . . .

Henry Hadley returns to the WEAF chain this Sunday night with a 40-piece symphony orchestra . . . and Louis A. Witten as announcer . . .

Court trials are always expensive . . . that's why we're hearing Countess Olga Albani on Sunday night now instead of the "Trials of History" series . . .

The LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, May 18.—Sports promoters have pretty well recovered from their ague at the mention of radio. They are coming more and more to believe that the broadcasters were right when they said the microphone was a menace only to second-rate performances.

Of all the major sports in the land, only baseball is not broadcast regularly. The networks limit their baseball descriptions to the opening games and the World Series. Not because they want to, but because they have to. The baseball men still suffer from turnstile-fright at the mere thought of an alliance with the broadcasters.

It seems to me the baseball men suffer needlessly. They need only look back to a day late in April. The opening game between the Yankees and the Red Sox was aired from the Stadium. The broadcast was not arranged on the spur of the moment and, therefore, unknown to thousands of fans, but was publicized for weeks ahead.

Did the announcement cause great gaps in the seating sections of the Stadium? Not so you could notice it. The contest drew the largest crowd ever to witness a ball game.

* * *

Some time back the boys who frame the boxing schedules—and you can interpret "frame" any way you please—banished their fears of the microphone's effect upon their box offices. Practically, all the big fights have been heard within the past few years and practically every one of them was a sell-out, with the exception of the Tunney-Heeney bout, which failed to draw not because of radio but because it was a poor match.

* * *

The emperor of ballyhoo, Tex Rickard, was always ready to talk business with the radio caliphs. He was quick to sense—perhaps that is why he was a master showman—that radio could be utilized in building up the appeal and popularity of the ring. It was his idea that the more people found synthetic excitement in the armchairs the more people would want to sample the real thing at the ringside. His idea has been borne out by the increased attendance, particularly of women, at boxing bouts since the advent of broadcasting.

The microphones have brought no falling-off in the crowds at the big football games, even though every major game and many minor ones were aired. In spite of the opportunities afforded of hearing accounts in the comparative comfort of the fireside, the contests drew capacity throngs.

The same is true of horse-racing, tennis, golf, hockey, track meets and swimming meets. Radio brought them all into the home but their "gates" were bigger and better than ever.

* * *

Not only is the country more sports-mad than ever before in its history, it is more susceptible to ballyhoo. And radio instead of being a hindrance has been a help, because it has become a chief medium of ballyhoo. If a sports event is promoted properly and promises excitement to the fans, the arena can always be filled.

* * *

Radio's participation, it seems to us, will be more enjoyable as the quality of expertness in description is given more consideration by the broadcasters. At present their best efforts are heard in the big hoss races because they have enlisted the voices and eyes of men who not only know their horses but know how to talk about them informatively and excitingly.

NEW IDEA SAVES SILK HOSE

Expensive at best, silk hose and undergarments are made doubly so by improper washing. A fashion expert has found a new, simple way to correct this.

She adds a tablespoonful of Energine to every quart of lukewarm, soapy water. Then she washes and rinses the articles as usual. The addition of Energine removes all the body excretions that soften and rot silk.

The results are amazing. Not only does this method give new cleanliness and freshness with original color revived but actually gives longer life to hose and undergarments. Try this new method of adding Energine to soapy water. It's easier and quicker than just soap and water alone, means less rubbing and insures extra wear that will surprise you.

Energine is unexcelled, also, for quickly removing all dirt and grease spots from dresses, hats, gloves, shoes, etc. Large can 35 cents at any drug store.

SMART ENSEMBLES INCLUDE GLOVES OF MATCHING FABRIC

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, May 18.—Gloves go hand in hand with the mode these days. The smartest costumes now seen are those that go walking with their own gloves, gloves created of leather combined with the fabric of the accompanying outfit. A smart fashion, but like so many other smart things, frightfully luxurious. But, perhaps, later on, when the idea becomes better known, clever designers catering to the average shopper will offer matching gloves with the costume, quite as a matter of course. It is certainly a most attractive novelty and indicates how important gloves have become in the sartorial scheme of things, although one does not see so many gloves worn at night with evening clothes. In the meantime, the leading glovers here have formed interesting alliances with the leading designers and work with them in creating new and original gloves with special costumes.

* * *

MME. JENNY is using some clever designs by Alexandrine, famous glover, as will be noted from a survey of the sketch of the Jenny ensemble. It is in navy blue lightweight woolen, with a faint white thread plaid. White pique makes the surplice collars, cuffs and facing of the jacket. The gloves, by Alexandrine, are of white kid combined with the dress fabric. Jenny is certainly an adept at doing the right thing by the practical but smart frock and jacket ensemble.

* * *

OF A VERY different genre from a street ensemble is the garden party frock by Lucile. It is of delicate pink organdie and is embroidered all over with discs of deeper pink, blue and yellow. White organdie scallops edge the neckline, sleeves and skirt flounces. The skirt itself is exceedingly wide and bouffant.

DERBY WINNER LOOKS DISTANCE KING

IT'S THE LONGEST and the hardest test that determines the true champion, and the victory of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand in the Kentucky Derby last Saturday convinced most turf followers that when there is distance to be traveled the stout-hearted colt of the Greentree Stable will be found ahead of all rivals this year. He is not a great starter, but his success in reducing Old Rosebud's Derby record of 2:03 2-5 to 2:01 4-5, setting a new track mark as well for the mile and a quarter, after a start that left him as far back as tenth at the quarter mile mark, demonstrated that when the route is long enough, he can run the rest of them, barring Equipoise possibly, off their feet.

Mrs. Payne Whitney

What he did Saturday in coming from the rear to win, he had done also in the Wood Memorial, and there is little doubt now that but for interference he would have done the same in the Preakness, and would have beaten out Mate in the latter event anyhow if the distance had been the same as in the Derby instead of a sixteenth of a mile shorter. It takes stamina and heart as well as speed to win over the long route, and Twenty Grand looks to be the year's best combination of all three.

THE TRIUMPH OF the Greentree Stable was popular as indicating a change in fortune for a courageous sportswoman. With each succeeding year Mrs. Whitney has assembled a formidable array of thoroughbreds only to be beset on all sides by illness, injuries and bad racing luck.

Such a run of disappointments would have discouraged the majority of owners, but Mrs. Whitney came right back every spring with new determination and a new string of thoroughbreds, and two victories and one second-place finish with Twenty Grand in the first three big stakes of 1931, including her initial Derby victory, would appear to indicate that her courage and persistence are at last to be rewarded.

IN PITCHING THE Pirates to their fourth victory in five games played on the eastern trip up to date, Heinie Meine kept up a record that stamps him one of the most valuable hurlers of the present spring. Heinie has won four of his last five games after losing his first contest of the year, has gone the full distance on each occasion and would have made it five in a row if he had received any kind of break in the 13-inning struggle he lost to Burleigh Grimes.

In the five games he allowed a total of only 14 runs. His success was all the more notable by reason of the caliber of the opposition he faced, for he was up against five of the best pitchers in the league in Bill Hallahan, Eppa Rixey, Grimes, Dazzy Vance and Harry Seibold. He beat them all except Grimes, and at that Burleigh did not finish.

SOMEBODY'S WINNING STREAK had to give way when the unbeaten Burleigh Grimes and Fred Fitzsimmons clashed in New York yesterday. Fitz was the victim, and while he was suffering his first defeat his string of runless innings also was snapped at 23. Grimes and Ed Brandt, of the Braves, were the only pitchers in the majors up to today who had won five games without losing one. Other streaks continued yesterday, when the A's won their ninth consecutive victory and the Indians, league leaders only a short time ago, were defeated for the ninth time in succession.*

Alfonso Lopez

NOBODY IS IN a better position than a catcher to judge whether the new ball has changed the game, and though there has been a conflict of opinion among major league players and managers, Alfonso Lopez, Brooklyn backstop, says there is no doubt the 1931 pellet has made a difference in pitching and batting.

"The so-called slumps of which some of the star hitters are complaining are due, in my opinion, to the fact that the changed ball has made the pitchers more effective," Lopez says. "I can see a difference in pitchers against whom I have batted. Carl Hubbell did not have a great curve last year, but he has one now. Fred Fitzsimmons' knuckle ball is breaking more sharply than it ever did before they raised the seams."

ACCORDING TO LOPEZ, Ray Phelps has been helped more by the new ball so far than any other Brooklyn pitcher, and has much more stuff with the raised stitching. He predicts that later on Dazzy Vance and Dolf Luque will have better curves than in former years.

The thicker cover also has cut down the hitting, Lopez believes. He says the ball becomes soft after a few innings of play and does not travel so far when hit. He has noticed that drives which used to go all the way to the fences now slow up suddenly and drop into the hands of the outfielders.

INDIAN RUNNERS WILL be among Uncle Sam's best bets in the Olympic marathon race next year. Sherman Institute, near Riverside, Cal., has 15 distance men who are eligible, and Coach Bert Jamison says seven of them can outrun any group of white stars in the country right now. Four of them are Hopis, two Zunis and one Piute. Jamison challenges any club or other organization in the country to a team race at any distance from 10 to 50 miles. "These boys run 10 miles every morning and 10 more before supper for exercise alone," he says. "I don't have to tell them how to train for long-distance running. It is born in them."*

JACK (KID) BERG, Jewish battler from the Whitechapel district of London, who will give the boxing fans of this section their first look at his windmill style when he meets Ray Kiser at Meyers Bowl in North Braddock tonight to open the outdoor glove season, is apt to figure in a championship muddle if some opponent scaling 140 pounds or under defeats him.

For while Berg is supposed to have lost the world junior-welterweight crown when he was stopped by Tony Canzoneri in his attempt to separate the latter from the lightweight diadem, it is the opinion of many boxing men that the Kid still holds the synthetic title.

TONY HERRERA intended to claim the junior-welterweight championship if he had defeated Berg in their recent New York bout, and if some other legitimate 140-pounder succeeds in beating Jack the same claim probably will be made.

Jack (Kid) Berg

The contention is that Berg's title was not at stake when he met Canzoneri, because he was required to make the lightweight limit of 135 pounds, which is five pounds below the border of his own division.

IF A CHAMPION chooses to fight below the limit of his class because he can do better work when a pound or two under, all well and good. But when he is forced to make a lower weight in trying for another championship it is a different matter, the argument goes. It is held that before a man can lose his title he is entitled to the privilege of weighing up to the full limit of his division at scaling time. A case in point was the Terry McGovern-Frank Erne fight in New York on July 16, 1900. Erne was lightweight champion at the time and McGovern held the featherweight title. McGovern stopped Erne in three rounds, but because Erne had come in at a special weight below his own class limit he did not lose his championship, and he retained the same until Joe Gans took it from him almost two years later.

ROSS THOMPSON LOSES; VOIGT ADVANCES

BULLETIN.

WESTWARD HO, Devon, England, May 18.—(AP.)—George Voigt, chief American hope to retain the British amateur golf cup Bobby Jones won last year, today played through the first two rounds to easy victories.

Voigt defeated T. H. Bowman, Norfolk champion, 4 and 3 in the first round and then beat Francis Francis, of Sunningdale, in the second 5 and 3.

WESTWARD HO, Devon, England, May 18.—Ross Thompson, of Uniontown, Pa., a member of the Nemacolin Country Club and well known in Pittsburgh golfing circles, was eliminated in the first round of the British amateur golf championship here today in a match that went five extra holes. Thompson played fine golf and put up a courageous fight before bowing to L. R. H. Hornby, of Saltford, on the twenty-third green.

Hornby and Thompson fought the closest match of the morning round, the American losing on a nine-foot putt by the Saltford player, which he was not able to match with his own effort from seven feet away. His ball rested on the lip of the cup.

VOIGHT VICTOR

George Voigt, of New York, chief American hope in the championship, defeated T. H. Bowman, Norfolk champion, 4 and 3. The cards:

Voigt—
Out	6	5	5	4	3	4	4	3	5	—39
In	4	3	4	4	3	4
Bowman—
Out	5	6	5	4	3	4	6	5	5	—43
In	4	4	4	5	3	4

In perfect form, Voigt swept the Norfolk champion completely off his feet, thrilling the gallery time and again with his brilliant shots. His opening performance, over a more or less unfamiliar course as fast as it is tricky, augured well for Voigt's championship hopes.

Soon after the Voigt opener, Tom Maguire, of Stockdale, Cal., walked into the second round by defeating H. L. Archibald, of St. Cloud, France, 5 up and 4 to play.

L. R. Phillips, of Santa Barbara, Cal., was beaten by N. C. Selway, 1 up, in a closely fought match.

NEW YORKER ADVANCES

J. H. Forsman, of the Winged Foot Club, Westchester County, New York, had a rest in the second round, his opponent, Herbert Scheftel, Oxford University, scratching. Forsman had drawn a bye in the first round and thus automatically advanced into the third.

Douglas Grant, a former Californian, now living in England, defeated Johnny De Paolo, of Los Angeles, in the first round, 1 up, in 20 holes.

BRAME FACES BRAVES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

BOSTON, May 18.—Victors in four of their five battles in the East, the Pirates will try to enhance their position today as they fight for the rubber game of the series with the Braves.

Ervin Brame is all set again to make his season's debut. The clever right hander, who has been ailing, was ready for the assignment in Brooklyn a few days ago, but rain prevented his appearance. He is likely to be opposed by Eddie Brandt. Braves star left hander, who has won all of his five games.

Skipper Ens prefers to use Brame against right handed pitching owning to the power in Erv's bat. The tall Kentuckian hits the southpaws fairly well, but he is a decided menace to all right hand hurlers and naturally Jewel wants to play that percentage.

MEINE HURLS WELL

The Pirates subdued the Tribe yesterday in the presence of 20,000 fans. The score was 5 to 3.

Meine pitched eight runless rounds against the Tribe, but he lost his control in the seventh when the Braves made all of their runs. The bases were loaded with Tribal warriors when a youngster named Walter Maranville drove a double down the left field line to score two of the home boys.

Adam Comorosky prevented trouble in the same inning when he raced to the bleachers to gather in a wallop from Walter Berger's bat that soared much like a homer as it left the plate. The third run of the inning scored after the catch.

Socks Seibold tried to stop the Pirates, but the stellar right-hander could not make the riffle.

SPORT VIGNETTES

On the basis of its showing in three successive big stakes, the Wood Memorial, the Preakness and the Kentucky Derby, Twenty Grand rates as THE race horse of the year . . . In both the Wood Memorial and the Derby, Twenty Grand got off in the rear and came with a rush and full of running to win easily in the closing strides, while, in the Preakness, a lot of jamming got the long-legged animal in bad and yet he was just beaten by Mate . . . The record-breaking time in the Derby last Saturday was the clincher . . . The appearance of Jack (Kid) Berg at the Meyers Bowl tonight is a reminder of the fact that for some time there has been a legend abroad that Berg was the correct name of the late Harry Greb, one of Pittsburgh's greatest ringmen, and that he merely spelled it backward to change it to Greb . . . That's all wrong, the family name being Greb and none other.

Our own Bert Fulton comments that the only peeve he has against the small artificial lakes in which radio stations cool their tubes is the fact that they aren't big enough to drown radio announcers . . . And Julius Levin comes to bat with the bold, bald statement that if the Mid-Atlantic League doesn't find a spot in which to place the surrendered Jeannette franchise, this 12-club league headed by Elmer Daily no longer will be eligible to be known as the Daily Dozen.

The class shown by Tommy Loughran in easily beating the gigantic Victorio Campolo in their bout in Madison Square Garden, New York, the other night, has everyone in the big town buzzing and has placed Tommy right up there in the first flight of heavyweight contenders again . . . Maybe the awkwardness of Campolo had something to do with making the agile Loughran look so superlatively good on this occasion. . . . Photos of the battle show Campolo trying in vain to land with ponderous rights that are replicas of those of that other large South American, Luis Angel Firpo. . . . And that's no way to

SUHR TO JOIN BUCS SOON

Staff Correspondent.

BOSTON, May 18.—Although Manager Jewel Ens, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, would like to have Gus Suhr, injured first baseman, who is recovering in Pittsburgh, available for the series with the Philadelphia Phillies, which is scheduled to open in Philadelphia tomorrow, it is hardly likely that the star slugger will be able to rejoin the club there.

According to word received from Pittsburgh, Suhr is making fine progress and should be in shape to make the western trip to Chicago and St. Louis after the present eastern trip is finished.

The Pirates are scheduled for an exhibition game in Huntington, Ind., next Friday, and Saturday finds them in Chicago for a three-game series with the Cubs. A similar engagement with the Cards follows the Bruin series.

PEARL CAP WINS

LONGCHAMP, France, May 18.—(AP.)—With President Doumergue attending probably for the last time as chief magistrate, Mlle. P. Esmond's filly, Pearl Cap, by Le Capuchin out of Pearl Maiden, yesterday won the classic Poule D'Essai Des Pouliches.

GRAYS MEET CUBANS

The Homestead Grays will strive for their fifteenth straight victory when they tackle the Cuban House of David club in a night game on the grounds of the Charleroi Middle Atlantic League club tonight.

TWENTY GRAND BIG WINNER

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 18.—(AP.)—Twenty Grand, winner of the Kentucky Derby, now has won more than 100 "grand" for Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree Stable. He won $56,580 before winning the $48,725 derby purse which made his total winnings $105,305.

Twenty Grand won the Wood Memorial this year, and was second in the Preakness. As a 2-year-old he was first in the Junior Champion Stakes, the Kentucky Jockey Club Stakes and two other races.

Besides the derby record, 2:01 4-5, he holds the world mile record for 2-year-olds, 1:36, set in the Jockey Club Stakes at Churchill Downs.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Weather permitting, Pittsburgh fans will get their first serving of outdoor boxing of the year tonight, in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock. Jack (Kid) Berg, of England, a young Jewish lad, who until recently held the world junior - welterweight championship, is the main attraction, meeting Ray Kiser, a tough, young, willing mixer from Tulsa, Okla., in the 10 - round main bout. Kiser has been undefeated in three starts here, one at the Bowl and the other two in the Moose Temple.

Johnny Peters

Indications are that the Bowl will get off to a good start. Interest in the coming of Berg, one of the best-touted "action" fighters of the time, is intense and has been reflected in the heavy advance sale of tickets. A sellout of the revamped arena would not be surprising.

Both Berg and Kiser arrived in town yesterday morning, fit for the fray. They worked out lightly after reaching the city and each predicted victory. Berg naturally is the favorite, but the fans who have seen Kiser in action here in the past believe he will trade punch for punch with his aggressive foe, and will keep the battle interesting throughout. Neither is a great hitter, but both throw of a lot of gloves.

BERG FORMER CHAMPION

Berg won the 140-pound title by stopping Mushy Callahan, of California, in London and recently dropped the crown to Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight champion, by a knockout in three rounds in a bout in the Chicago Stadium in which both titles were at stake. Berg was weakened by having to make 135 pounds for that battle, but attributed his defeat to the fact that he fell face downward and struck his jaw on the floor of the ring for the knockout. He tried to get up at the count of seven, but fell back for the full count. The knockout was a surprise to ring followers. Since then he has beaten Tony Herrera in a bout in New York.

A description of tonight's battle will be sent, round by round, to England as it is fought, over a telegraph wire from the ringside to New York, from which point it will be cabled in time to make the late editions of the London morning newspapers. When it is over, some time after 10 p. m., it will be a little after 2 a. m., English time, allowing for the daylight saving in vogue here. The

FERRELL FAILS TO REGAIN EARLY FORM

Homewood and Book Nine, Title Contenders, Clash in Sandlot Feature

CARDS DEFEAT GIANTS; REDS TOP ROBINS

By Associated Press

A hoodoo seems to have pursued Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland ace, since he pitched a hitless shutout against the St. Louis Browns three weeks ago. Since then he has been able to pitch only one full game. On his next start he got out of some trouble and beat Detroit, but he has failed to last through the last three games he started.

The Indians called on him again yesterday. He weathered five stormy innings against the Athletics and contributed a home run on his own account. But in the sixth he gave way to Pete Jablonowski, who was charged with Cleveland's ninth straight defeat. The A's won by a 15-to-10 score.

NATS, BROWNS SPLIT

A flock of four-baggers turned up as Washington and the St. Louis Browns divided a double-header. The Browns won the first, 7 to 1, behind Sammy Gray's fine pitching, to break their five-game losing streak and end the Senators' string of victories at six. Homers by West and Bluege in the ninth inning of the second clash broke up a duel between Lefty Brown and George Blaeholder, giving Washington a 4-to-2 triumph.

Ground rules limited the long hits at Detroit to two bases as 38,000 fans, the biggest crowd of the season, turned out to see the New York Yankees outslug the Tigers, 8 to 5. Boston and Chicago showed that the spell of pitching had not been completely broken as the White Sox pushed over a run in the ninth inning of a close duel to win, 2-1.

CARDS ROUT GIANTS

The St. Louis Cardinals clouted four of the National League's homers in beating the New York Giants and Fred Fitzsimmons, 6 to 1. They connected four times, George Watkins hitting two.

Eppa Rixey, of Cincinnati, and Heinie Meine, of Pittsburgh, turned in some more good National League pitching to win the other two games. Rixey weakened in the eighth and gave Brooklyn four runs before Frey rescued him but Cincinnati won out, 7 to 5. Given a three-run lead in the first inning, Meine pitched the Pirates to a 5-3 victory over the Boston Braves.

BRODERICKS, SHOEMEN WIN

Yesterday's fine weather brought out the sandlot nines in full blossom, crackerjack games being scored along all local fronts.

The D. J. Brodericks scored a decisive victory over the American Club at Marshall Field, Harry Noftz turning in a five-hit performance as the Brodericks won, 9 to 1.

In the only league games played, the North Siders crushed the Telegraph team, 11-0, in a North-South fray. Book Shoe had a tough time nosing out the Immaculate Heart team, 7 to 6. Iroquois had to go into extra innings to defeat Greenfield, 5 to 3, and Bellevue ran up the biggest run total of the day, beating Coraopolis, 20 to 4.

The Homestead Grays slugged out a 12-to-4 win over the crack Five Points nine at Five Points. Linden Grove took the Rinkeydinks, 4 to 1, and the North Side Elks defeated the St. Clair Frogs, 8 to 7. De Pasquale nosed out the St. Michael's nine, 6 to 5.

St. Clair downed Pittsburgh S. & B., 14 to 7. Neville defeated North Pole, 6 to 5, and the R. L. Irwins barely defeated the Brighton club, 4 to 3.

In the Steel City League, the East End Cardinals defeated the Mifflin A. C., 6 to 5, at Locust Grove, and St. Elizabeth went into a tie for the leadership of the loop by defeating the Snee Dairy nine, 6 to 0, at Jordan Field.

Jones to Become Week-End Golfer

NEW ORLEANS, May 18.—(AP.)—When Bobby Jones finishes his golf movies in Hollywood the par that will occupy his attention will be commercial; he will make his birdies, wit, briefs and his eagles will be oratorical.

This was announced here last night definitely and by the highest possible authority.

"When Bobby gets back to Atlanta," said Mrs. Bobby as she changed trains for home after visiting her husband in Hollywood, "he will resume his law business and he won't have much time for golf except on Saturdays and Sundays."

FLOOR STARS WED

Lester Cohen, former University of Pittsburgh basketball, track and football player, was married last night in the William Penn Hotel to Miss Ethel Levy, of Pittsburgh. The ceremony was attended by Dr. H. C. Carlson, Pitt basketball coach, and by many of Cohen's former team and classmates. Sam Spokane, manager and star of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement House teams, also joined the range of benedicts yesterday. The bride was Miss Frances Davidson.

WHITNEY STAR FLASHES COMEBACK TO BEAT SWEEP ALL AND MATE IN THE KENTUCKY CLASSIC

Here's how they finished in the Kentucky Derby at Louisville Saturday, with Twenty Grand, the disappointment of the Preakness a week before, coming back to set a new Derby record and lead home Sweep All, Mate and Spanish Play, in the order named. Post with white stripe marks the finishline. Twenty Grand's time was 2:01 4-5.

Lloyd removed in the first. Paul slashed a single to center and Grantham waited for a pass. Traynor pulled a single to left that scored Paul, Grantham stopping at second. Comorosky hit a long single to center to tally Grantham, and when Berger fumbled the ball, Pie also tallied.

The Waner act went over in a spectacular manner in the fifth. Brother Lloyd opened with a single to center and Paul plastered a three-bagger against the rightfield bleachers. Paul scored when Traynor flied to Schulmerich.

Al Spohrer started Meine off to his bad seventh. The catcher singled to right and Meine passed Maguire. Richbourg batted for McAfee and he also drew a pass that filled the bases. Rabbit pulled a double down the leftfield line to score two Braves. Meine fanned Chatham and Berger followed with his long drive to Comorosky. Richbourg scoring.

JAY FRANCHISE TO BE PLACED

GOLFERS FACE HEAVY CARD TODAY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

With the Central Trades Golf Association cavorting the beautiful Stanton Heights layout, the Hotel, Club and Restaurant Men's Golf Association competing at South Hills, the Builders' Exchange linkmen at Shamopin and Carrick High meeting Oliver in a Section II, Interscholastic Conference match at Highland, a fairly busy day is in prospect for local linksmen.

Tomorrow, the Women's Team League of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania holds forth, with Section I playing at the Pittsburgh Field Club, and Section II at the Alcoma Country Club.

Kiski plays at Shady Side tomorrow in a Section I, school conference tilt, while the women of the Shannopin Country Club will stage a medal play event among themselves.

Wednesday is the big day of the week, with the state medal play tournament slated for South Hills, and the inaugural women's one-day tourney at Allegheny.

A course record was established and a hole in one scored at Stanton Heights yesterday. Freddie Weppner stroked the course in 67 to set a new mark for the 72-par test. He was out in 33 and back in 34. Weppner's card:

Out	3	4	3	4	3	5	3	4	3	33
In	4	3	5	4	3	4	3	5	3	34—67

C. A. Stover sank his tee shot on the 180-yard No. 17 to register the ace-holer.

To make up for the errorless game at Wheeling, Cumberland and Johnstown, battling at Cumberland, committed nine miscues between them. Cumberland winning, 12 to 3, and cutting the lead of the Johnnies to half a game. Moscowitz held the Johns to five scattered hits.

At Fairmont, Charleston nosed out the Fairies, 3 to 1, and Jeannette, which is to give up its franchise, was nosed out by Clarksburg's Generals, 7 to 6. Due to the Sunday baseball law, the Hagerstown-Charleroi game was not played.

The feature game on the sandlots this evening will be staged at Olympia Park, and it will bring together the first and second half champions of the City League of last season, Book Shoe and Homewood.

This should be one of the outstanding battles of the week, and should be played to the greatest crowd of the season.

Carl Stewart probably will start his first league game of the season for Homewood, and the spitball expert is a tough customer when the slippery elm is working.

The Westmoreland County loop features three games this evening, Bradenville goes to the Latrobe Cardinals. This tilt should be more than worth while.

Bunts

With Jerry and Howdy Levey, brothers of Jimmy Levey, playing with the East Liberty Board of Trade nine, the East Enders are becoming one of the best teams of the district. Teams in the district wishing to book games with the Traders should call Carrick 2517-W.

With the addition of several new players, the Wally Smith club is ready to meet the leading teams of the district. Decoration Day is open for two games abroad. Write Jack Collette, 734 Anaheim street, or call Mayflower 7034.

W. P. I. A. L. SET TO KEEP STATE TITLE

STARS QUALIFY FOR P. I. A. A. CARNIVAL

By JESS CARVER

The scholastic track and field circus moves out of the immediate vicinity this week and descends on Altoona, where on Saturday the stars of Pittsburgh's two P. I. A. A. divisions, District VII (the W. P. I. A. L.) and District VIII (city schools) will battle the young men of the six other sections for the state championship.

The good old W. P. I. A. L. harvested the laurels a year ago, with Williamsport High winning the individual school honors. The team that the league qualified here Sat'day in its annual meet in the Pitt Stadium, won't be any stronger than last year, and at the same time, it won't be any weaker, which warrants the assertion that the W. P. I. A. L. will retain the laurels of 1930, and without breaking out in much of a sweat, either.

STARS ELIGIBLE

The following men are eligible for the W. P. I. A. L. team. They are: Dooms, Uniontown; McBurney, Washington; Pryor, Ford City, and Washington, of Connellsville, sprinters; Zuoney, of Ford City; Washington, Connellsville; Coburn, Washington, and Loptoski, East Huntington, mile and half-mile; Grimm, New Brighton; Straus, Ellwood City; Lasky, New Castle, and Snizik, Clairton, hurdles, and Uniontown's crackerjack mile relay team, composed of Farson, Stern, Redd and Dooms.

In the field, Skomezney, of Dunbar; Link, of Monessen; Brooker, of Tarentum; Donner, of Tarentum, are eligible for the broad and high jumps, with hefties such as Johnny Murphy, of Butler; Wilson, of East Huntington; Seifert, of Jeannette; Nicksich, of Burgettstown, and Johnson, of Connellsville, set for the shot, discus and the javelin.

W. P. I. A. L. stars won four first places in last year's meet. Fleming, of Westinghouse, now competing in the new district, took the 440 and tied the record; Mike Dunn, Ellwood City, swept the hurdles; Uniontown's mile quartet won the relay; Murphy, of Butler, captured the javelin, and Winfield (Windy) Moore the pole vault.

AH—THE RECORDS!

Following is an up-to-date list of the best scholastic marks made in the district so far this year: Straus, of Ellwood City, is the only double leader, holding the best records for both the 120 and 220-yard low hurdles. The records, gentlemen, the records:

Robinson Elected State Net Leader

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., May 18.—Ralph A. Robinson, of Elkins Park, Pa., was elected captain of the Penn State tennis team today to fill out the season's team. Paul Barber, elected to the post at the end of last year, did not return to college this summer.

(Baseball's Comedian)

Nick Altrock

ST. LOUIS, May 18.—It's been a long time since the Boston Braves have been out of the bargain basement so late in the spring. You could generally look up and down the figures in the league standing and always find the Braves one of the cheapest dishes on the menu. I don't know how they got up so high this year unless it was on a forged passport. And the spark plug of the Braves is old Rabbit Maranville. He was a drummer boy in the Battle of Chickamagua and was playing with the old White Sox at the time of the Chicago fire. He can't be a minute younger than 87 today. But he is still going stronger than a slice of roquefort.

PITT NETTERS FACE SKIBOS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Panther and Tartan racquet aces will terminate their vigorous 1931 court campaigns ere the end of the current week, the ancient rivals being slated to tangle with each other on the Skibo lot this afternoon and thereafter to battle foreign foes, the Blue and Gold entertaining Ohio State at the Stadium on Saturday and the Plaid visiting Wash-Jeff on Wednesday and playing host to Bethany two days later.

Meanwhile the Dukes, with a record showing no better than one win and one tie in seven starts, will loaf until Saturday, when they are billed for a return fracas with Grove City.

Recent cancellation of the entire Allegheny College net schedule by sport authorities of the Meadville school rather punched holes in the Pitt and Duke programs for mid-May. The Panthers were to have met the Methodists in the latter's bailiwick last Saturday and were to have encountered them in a second joust, this one at the Stadium, the coming Friday. Duquesne was billed to journey to Meadville tomorrow and to mingle with the Alleghenians in Hilltop territory Thursday.

The Pitt-Carnegie Tech affair today looms as undoubtedly the headline varsity tennis event of the home season. Rain knocked out the Scotch incursion into the Panther lair carded for last Monday, so that very probably the impending clash will be the lone racquet combat of the spring between the historic foes.

There is a bit of gossip going the rounds to the effect that the Pitt schedule may be extended into June to allow for a tussle with the Stanford University luminaries, who at that time will be swinging eastward with the national intercollegiate championships as their primary objective. It will be recalled that the Blue and Gold last year arranged a special debate with the University of California team on the grass at Fox Chapel and thus absorbed the lone Pitt defeat of the season.

KAMM TRADED FOR FONSECA

CHICAGO, May 18.—(AP.)—In his seventy-third year and not in the best of health, Charles A. Comiskey, "the old Roman," is still striving to weld together another American League championship contender for Chicago.

After the World Series scandal of 1919, which caused him to wreck a great team, Comiskey's White Sox sagged into the depths of the league. A year ago he hired Donie Bush, who had given Pittsburgh a National League title, to manage his club.

His latest effort has been to trade Willie Kamm, for whom he paid $100,000 in 1922, and who was one of the league's leading third basemen, for Lew Fonseca, of the Cleveland Indians. Fonseca, who led the American League in batting in 1929, will be used either at second or third, and his hitting should help the Sox to win games.

Crafts Too Slow; Cup Withdrawn

GARDONE, Riviera, Italy, May 18.—(AP.)—The Gardone motorboat regatta ended without any of the competitors, including Kaye Don, reaching the required speed of 100 kilometers an hour in the competition for the cup offered in memory of Sir Henry Segrave by the poet, Gabriele D'Annunzio. Accordingly the cup was withdrawn from competition until next year.

Rough weather yesterday handicapped all the pilots and the boats all had slow going. D'Annunzio gained from Don a promise to remain here a few days longer before deciding to abandon his attempt to break his own world's speedboat record.

STOCK MARKET DECLINES TO NEW LOWS

U. S. Steel and Can Break 100; Rails Heavy Losers; Upturn Made in Afternoon

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP.)—The stock market quietly penetrated new low levels for the bear market today.

For the eighth consecutive session, there was no relief from the slow liquidation of the rails and some of the leading industrials and utilities. While bear selling was undoubtedly a factor, it was said in brokerage circles that considerable real liquidation was flowing into the market, and a substantial portion of it was believed to be from foreign sources.

The pressure against United States Steel and American Can finally pushed both issues under the 100 mark, with losses of about 2 and 3 points. A mild recovery occurred in the early afternoon.

Failure of the market, as measured by price averages, to meet important support around the bear market low established on April 29, was distinctly bearish development, so far as Wall street sentiment was concerned, but most of the particular issues under notable pressure had been penetrating new low ground for several days, while much of the rest of the list has held fairly well. The rails have dipped below the bottom of the bear market of 1907, although still holding above the levels of the post-war deflation.

In connection with rumors of important selling from abroad, Wall street is awaiting the bi-monthly settlement in London later this week with considerable interest.

The selling of American Tobacco reflected in part renewed cigaret price cutting by retailers. While the manufacturers' price remains unchanged, the prospects of the long-rumored advance in wholesale quotations were decidedly dimmed.

Introduction of a bill in the Florida state senate proposing a six-cent tax on each package of cigarets may have been a sentimental influence. In connection with the recent selling of American Telephone, considerable doubt has been expressed over the maintenance of Western Electric's dividend, which has helped to swell Telephone's earnings.

Lead Production Declined in 1930

STOCK TICKER HELD FALSE INDICATOR

Trade Unchanged in Face Of Market Fluctuations; Tape Fails as Forecaster

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, May 18.—For another week, the stock ticker has continued to give more thrills and melodrama than the sedate indicators of the business trend.

As a matter of fact, though numerous leading stocks in the railroad and industrial fields plunged precipitately to new low levels since the panic, business in the large—apart from seasonal changes—maintained its equilibrium near the bottom with deadly monotony.

Mr. Rukeyser

If the observer ascribes to the ticker tape infinite wisdom in the field of prophesy, the outlook is gloomy indeed. But the record of the ticker in the last two years has been more moronic than brilliant, and the trend of quotations should be accepted as no trustworthy substitute for competent statistical analysis of the economic situation.

PEAK IN 1929

To review the unreliable record of the tape, it will be recalled that, though business attained its summit in June, 1929, the selected stock market averages continued to move forward until a peak was registered early in September, 1929. Then in the winter and spring of 1930, the premature rally in stock prices of record-breaking proportions gave a false forecast of the business outlook.

Instead of making a major turn upward in June, business plunged further downward. Likewise, the midsummer rally of 1930, which suggested autumnal recovery in business was misguided. As a matter of fact, business was destined to plunge still lower in the fall, reaching an apparent bottom late in November and early in December. Then came the vigorous winter rally of 1931, when traders overemphasized normal seasonal increases in business. That rally also raised too great hopes for speedy recovery, which has been lacking.

BUSINESS UNCHANGED

The reversal in this year's stock market from the enthusiastic winter rally to the violent liquidation of the spring period has been paralleled by no comparable changes in the business situation, which has been listless and little changed. As a matter of fact, apart from seasonal changes, business on the average has moved sidewise a little above the bottom level for nearly half a year.

The most powerful economic influence arrayed against the status quo in business is the aggressive policy of the Federal Reserve System, in attempting to drive loafing dollars back into business via the bond market.

WORLD WHEAT PARLEY OPENS

LONDON, May 18.—(INS.)—Representatives of 11 wheat exporting nations gathered here today and discussed for two hours the problems of distribution and disposal of surplus.

Under the chairmanship of Howard Ferguson, Canadian high commissioner, the conferees laid the groundwork for plans which are expected to have far-reaching consequences.

When the meeting adjourned after appointing a standing committee to draw up an agenda, Ferguson stated that all the delegates had admitted wheat producers faced a "serious problem" and that all those present had showed a decided willingness to co-operate for the good of the industry.

Samuel R. McKelvie, former governor of Nebraska and chief American delegate to the conference, was appointed to the standing committee to represent the United States.

The United States will never consent to dumping its surplus wheat on the world's markets, McKelvie told newspapermen today. He explained that the American delegation had come without proposals, but "merely with a viewpoint open to suggestions."

COURT DEFINES SPECULATION

NEW YORK, May 18.—Speculating in the securities market is not considered gambling and does not come under the New Jersey Anti-Gambling Act, the Supreme Court of that state has ruled in a case involving Holt, Rose & Troster, securities dealers of New York City, and David Zyskind of Newark, N. J. As a result the court reversed a previous decision of the Circuit Court of Essex County when Judge Smith's decision ordered a non-suit and as a result a new trial has been ordered.

The New Jersey Anti-Gambling Act, the Supreme Court ruled, is not intended to interfere with the right of buying and selling for speculation. The line is to be drawn between what is legitimate and what is illegitimate and what is an unlawful wager. When property is actually bought, whether with money or with credit, the purchaser and owner may lawfully hold it for a future rise and risk a future fall. With such transactions the law does not interfere.

The brokerage firm sued to recover a balance of $7,637 allegedly owed them by Mr. Zyskind.

RAILROADS TRY BARGAIN RATES

CHICAGO, May 18.—Faced by growing bus competition, major western railroads are testing reduced fares to determine whether passenger business is increased sufficiently thereby to justify "bargain rates."

Thus far the proposition has been purely experimental and already one road, the St. Louis and Southwestern, has announced it will seek to restore its regular fare rate — but continuation of the tests this summer is expected to reveal definite conclusions in the railroads' profit and loss column.

Railroad officials, seeking methods of increasing revenue, say frankly they are trying every feasible means of inducing the public to respond to the lure of a bargain.

A few are optimistic of results; many others are not. Passenger rates on some occasions have been slashes to a cent a mile.

Sulphur Output In Texas Lower

HOUSTON, May 18.—Production of sulphur in Texas during the first quarter of 1931 amounted to 649,594 gross tons, according to the state comptroller. Of this, Texas Gulf Sulphur Company produced 234,105 tons, and Duval Texas Company, 11,805 tons. Production is 28,525 tons below the final 1930 quarter when Texas Gulf produced 455,584 tons, Freeport, 211,825, and Duval Texas, 10,710.

Bituminous Coal Output Higher

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Total output of bituminous coal during the week of May 9 was 6,708,000 net tons, according to the Bureau of Mines, an increase of 286,000 tons over the preceding week and comparing with 8,285,000 tons in the like 1930 week.

Total production during the present calendar year to May, amounts to 140,713,000 net tons, against 170,988,000 net tons to May 9 in 1930, and 189,277,000 net tons in 1929.

Cotton Goods in Better Demand

NEW YORK, May 18.—Demand for all types of cotton goods was the outstanding feature of the New York wholesale markets during the week, occasioned by the announcement of a nation-wide promotion of cotton for the first week in June. In the general market, reordering of summer lines of merchandise was reduced, due to the inclement weather in numerous sections of the country.

Merger of Lamp Firms Approved

BOSTON, May 18.—President Edward Poor, of the Hygrade Lamp Company, today announced the approval by the directors of his concern and the Sylvania Products Company and the Nilco Lamp Works, Inc., both of Emporium, Pa., of a proposed merger. The recommendations will be placed before the stockholders of the three concerns shortly.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Larry Laughed

Gentle Husband Deserts Domineering Mate

Lawrence W. Jennings was the "& Co." in the lumber firm of J. Knight & Co.

At home he wasn't even the "& Co."

Mrs. Florence Jennings was the whole works at home. She never even bothered to have her cards engraved with anything other than the Mrs. Florence Jennings.

Larry used to have a great many friends before he was married. He could easily have plenty more friends if he didn't have to account for every moment he was out of an evening, with all details as to where he went, who he met and so on and on.

Larry had gone into business with Jim Knight at a time when Knight needed his financial backing. It was Larry who put the concern on its feet. It was Larry who made the profitable deals.

"But you can't do that, Larry," Jim Knight had said.

"Why not?"

Transfers Business

"I put the money in because you begged me to do so and because I knew more about this lumber game than you'll ever know. My father made his money in this game. I put the outfit back on its feet. We've made more in the past year clear net than you ever made in all your 10 years."

Larry looked at big Jim Knight and then he laughed.

"What's the joke?" Jim growled.

"My wife."

"Your wife? What's she got to do with our business? I don't see anything to laugh at."

"She has often said that she wished I was more like you. She likes 'em big and dignified and full of bluster and hot air, regardless of how dumb they are."

At home he said, "Had a run-in with Jim today."

"You would. You're just small enough and mean enough to pick a fight with a real man like Jim Knight."

"How would you like my share of the business?" Larry asked her.

"I could make it pay better than you ever did. You never did anything right in your life."

"I'm going to do something right this time. I'm going to sell you my share of the lumber business for $1 and other valuable considerations."

"I just wish you would!"

To the great surprise of Mrs. Florence Jennings, Larry came back with a lawyer and made a legal transfer of his half of the lumber business to his wife for the $1 in hand paid and other valuable considerations."

"And now I am going to do something that is right, at last."

"What?"

"If I told you, you'd say it was all wrong."

"It is — you were always wrong, and I demand to know what you have in mind?"

"Sure it is."

Mr. Lawrence W. Jennings picked up his paper and began to read.

"You'd better take your papers down and show them to Jim, tell him you own half of his business. I'm a man of leisure now," Larry said.

Uses Assumed Name

Larry went up to his room, packed a couple of suitcases, phoned for a taxi, as his wife had the family car, and 20 minutes later was on a train for New York.

In New York he transacted some financial business. His wife never knew of his sceret and private account there. Part of this was from his earnings, part from the money his father had left him.

From New York, Larry went on a fruit steamer and under another name, to Central America. From there he went up the coast, from there across to Jagore Island of the Friendly group. He was two months making the trip.

On this island he established his home. He knew just what he was able to do for he had been there as a boy of 20 with his father, when they were searching for some very rare woods.

On the island Larry used his name again. His father's name was not unknown there. He proceeded to collect rare woods and to ship them home to various markets that he knew. There was big profit in it.

It was just 10 years ago that he had married Flora.

Now and then his conscience hurt him a little—rotten thing to do, walk out and disappear. However, he had left his wife considerable money that was in their joint account, and half of the J. Knight lumber business, which paid well.

Beautiful Estate

They knew him there as the "quiet man," for, while Larry was happy, he was not hilariously so. He never laughed. He hadn't laughed since that day he laughed at his former partner for being so grasping and mean.

At the end of two years Larry had established a rather handsome home and lived mighty well. Occasionally he visited with the English and Dutch planters and traders. He was well liked and popular.

It was at this time that he met little Miss Darnton. Her brother was one of the wealthiest men on the island, an Englishman of education and splendid family.

Little Miss Darnton appealed to Larry.

There was no question but what she was exceedingly fond of him.

Darnton, stopping in at Larry's place one day, joined him in a drink and began to talk.

"I'm not nosey, old chap, but you seem to be rather fond of Alicia, so you'll understand why I question you."

Alicia was little Miss Darnton.

"Shoot," Larry said, nervously.

"Is there any serious intention on your part—toward Alicia?"

Divorced by Wife

"I haven't made love to her," Larry said, gravely, "and the reason is, I left a wife back home. I left her well provided for. She was—ah—a modern Xantippe, a vixen—couldn't stand for it."

"Thanks. Sorry, no end. Afraid Alicia has lost her heart to you."

Larry wrote a long letter to his lawyer.

It would take a long while for the letter to travel there and a reply to get back.

"Don't think so—government buildings are down in the square—"

"Don't dispute me — don't dare. You've never been right about anything. Come along up and we'll prove that it is a government building," she fairly screamed at him.

"Hello, Florence! Hello, Jim," he said.

"Right," Larry agreed.

"It is. I built it. It has never been a government building. What's this anyway—you two?"

"After your miserable desertion I divorced you. Jim and I are on our honeymoon," the former Mrs. Florence Jennings said.

Larry laughed!

He laughed long and loud, and then he excused himself and hurried over to see little Miss Darnton.

FIVE AND TEN -:- By Fannie Hurst

Women who took tango lessons of Ramon learned quickly, too, that to keep him waiting was to receive only desultory and sullen attention, instead of the subtle thrills they came for and paid for.

Jenny's virtue as wife and mother had been founded on no principle of life or religion. That she happened to possess it up to now had apparently been a matter of no counterforces sufficiently strong to imperil it. Raging to see Ramon, who in five minutes would be beginning his wait for her, Jenny regarded this slender choirboy-faced son of hers, while turmoils battered her.

The years at Newberry, and now his freshman year at Eastern, had drawn Avery out of his reticent, inhibited boyhood precisely as she had predicted they would. Avery was pretty much of a regular fellow now. He had "made" the right fraternity.

The son of a former vice president of the United States had sponsored him for K. A. K.; and the Avery who used to hide from his riding-master and feel squeamish in a rowboat now rode his own polo mount and did not remonstrate at Jenny's high desire for him to own a speedboat. As a child he had feared water.

Avery, always more or less at shy odds with life, with his father, and even with Jenny herself, had not been the gay and uncomplex youngster that Jennifer had been. Even now he was sometimes dark and turgid water to her.

Once, on one of his Easter vacations from Newberry, Avery, to whom his mother was by far the happiest aspect of his holidays, had tried to read her excerpts from a very private journal which he had kept for three years, and which locked with a key he kept on a chain with his fraternity symbol.

Matter for Father

She had felt deeply the spirit which prompted the confidence, but was conscious of having failed miserably to understand what to her had seemed the rather embarrassing vaporings of a young mind floundering to climb out of some sophomoric morass.

Was she about to fail again of her coveted place in the eyes of her son? If Avery were impelled to once more put before her the difficult and even embarrassing torments of his expanding and maturing mind, would it not be better after all to evade the issue, than to fail in it?

Let Avery have it out with his father! Let them become acquainted and find a common language. It was not even fair to continue to stand as buffer between them.

But, in her heart, Jenny knew that the source of all this hurried disposition of her immediate predicament was the fact that Ramon was waiting.

"Mother, I know I'm putting the cart before the horse, to try to make you understand the result first, and then give you the reasons that led up to the decision, but the fact is, I'm done with college."

Then it was something schoolboyish! Let him have it out with his father. Eastern was the ideal college for a son of the rich. Important connections. Socially right. Proper setting. Rich men with sons about to inherit vast responsibilities, chose Eastern for their boys. Ramon was waiting ten minutes by now. High time Avery and his father were making each other's acquaintance.

Wants Time to Himself

"You talk as if such decision were a matter of course, Avery. I'm surprised."

"I knew you would be, mother. That's why I want like the dickens to talk to you before the explaining to father begins. Or maybe you'll talk to him, Mother?"

"I cannot always be taking sides with you against your father, Avery. After all, he is your father and my husband, and must be respected."

That, ever since the advent of Ramon, was part of her new psychology of atonement to her husband.

"Out of whose book of life have you torn a new page, mother? Not your own?"

Now he was going to be abstract! That was the difficulty about being able to understand Avery

"You've only three more years at Eastern, Avery. There is something about the idea of a college degree! It's an asset in after-life. Avery T. Rarick, Century Club, Racquet Club, Eastern Club. It's fine to hear one man say of another. 'We finished at Eastern together. We made the polo teams together at Eastern!'" (Ramon was capable of going, after waiting a half-hour.)

"Mother, I want a couple of years to myself."

"Yourself?"

"Yes. Alone, mother, I want terribly some time to myself. In Europe. On my own. I imagine Paris is as good a place to get one's bearings. Or, better still, some off-the-beat places like Sicily or Greece. I'm fed up. College is all right for a certain sort of fellow; I'm wasting my time at it."

"That's ungrateful, Avery. I've almost won your father over about your boat."

Shocks Mother

"Mother, I need to tell you a few things about myself. I'd have told you long ago, you're so sweet. But you dodged; and I do hate like the dickens to say them . . ."

Then it was to be in the key of the writings in that locked journal of his. Darling, silly adolescent! Ramon was waiting.

"Avery, I cannot stand the strain of the role of go-between for you and your father any longer. Isn't it manlier for you to face him yourself? This is too serious for me. You yourself must ask him for what you want——"

"Why, mother, do you know I've never really wanted anything before? It is you who have always wanted for me. That's what makes it impossible for me to really get at father. He thinks I'm the fellow who has wanted all the things I've never really wanted."

So! It had come home to her. So much sooner than she could have dreamed.

"Avery Rarick," she said, with everything reproachful in her voice that she could muster, "I cannot believe my ears."

Dangerous Buildings

Removal and Repair of Unlawful Structures Will Help to Relieve Unemployment.

Director Clark, of the Public Safety Department, and Supt. Ley, of the Bureau of Building Inspection, have made an encouraging start on the task of ridding the city of buildings that do not conform to the law.

Four such structures have been demolished in the last two weeks and 13 others have been designated for condemnation.

We hope they will make a thorough job of it, and not consider it completed until every section of the city has been covered and every ramshackle structure on the verge of collapse, every old firetrap, every dwelling that is a menace to health, has been removed or rehabilitated.

But there is another reason—an excellent reason—why it should be carried on at this time. The demolishing and repairing of the condemned structures will help to relieve unemployment.

Some of the worst buildings, it is said, are owned by the estates of wealthy men. These buildings are in the nature of tenements and stand in Pittsburgh's slums. Their demolition will improve the appearance of the city, for most of them are eyesores. Model dwellings for people of small incomes should be erected in their stead.

New Sources of Revenue

They Are to Be Welcomed If It Means a Lightening of the Burden on Real Estate.

City Treasurer Schooley has been racking his brain to find new sources of revenue.

His latest plan is to collect a tax of $1 a year on vending machines, and possibly, with Council's consent, raise the tax to $2 or $3.

The dollar tax has been authorized for years, Schooley finds, but little effort has been made to collect it. Only $113 was received from this source last year, notwithstanding that investigation by the city treasurer indicates there are at least 15,000 such machines in Pittsburgh.

The discovery of new sources of revenue is to be welcomed if it means a lightening of the burden on real estate.

Fifteen years ago property taxes furnished less than three-fourths of Pittsburgh's municipal revenue; now they supply more than four-fifths.

Thousands of property owners have been unable to stand the burden; their taxes are unpaid. The effect has been to increase the load for the others, some of whom have been unable to bear the increase.

Protection for Schools

It Behooves the Police to Guard the Pupils from Immoral Influences.

The police have been instructed to break up the "baseball pool racket," a form of lottery. Plainclothes men are to be assigned to the vicinity of the public schools, to prevent the racketeers from selling the pool tickets to the pupils.

Demoralizing of school children by lottery operators eager for the nickels and pennies of the boys and girls is an old story in Pittsburgh. The Clearing House Lottery is reported to have taken not a little money from the youngsters, and cases have been cited in which boys were so corrupted by the gamblers that they stole money in order to "play the numbers."

The only effective way to deal with the menace is to keep after it incessantly. Sporadic campaigns will not suffice. The warfare must be waged without respite.

The police have no higher duty than to protect school children from immoral influences. It is a duty that they have not always performed as well as they should.

It has been reported, for instance, that the environment of the Franklin School in the Hill district is unwholesome, that speakeasies and worse are to be found in the neighborhood, and that the school authorities will welcome the day when they can remove the pupils to another neighborhood where they will not be subject to these bad influences.

Protect People's Money!

If "government is protection," as it certainly ought to be, then it is high time for American government to give better protection to the bank deposits of the American people.

Proof that government is not protecting bank deposits as effectively as the people have a right to require is to be found in the humiliating fact that 1,326 bank failures in 1930 brought the total of such failures in the United States during the last 10 years to more than 6,000.

These failures have affected more than 7,000,000 depositors with nearly $2,000,000,000 in deposits to their credit.

And five out of every six of these bank failures were state banks which were not members of the Federal Reserve system.

Newly elected senators and representatives in Congress have ample warning, therefore, that this urgent question of better protection for bank deposits is certain to be one of the first and important problems which the new Congress must tackle when it assembles next December.

Governors and state legislatures are already feeling the pressure of an aroused public sentiment that demands not only jail sentences for bank wreckers, but stronger safeguards written into the law that will prevent bank wrecking.

The way has been paved by the banking committees of both houses of Congress for an informed discussion on ways and means to protect bank deposits when the new Congress convenes.

But the leadership of the federal government must be supported by the governments of the several states, and state legislation must supplement federal legislation if the disgraceful record of bank failures for the last 10 years is not to be continued for the next 10 years.

Here is a vital matter of public business that calls for the most serious study that the best brains in both political parties can give.

If ever there was a problem that ought to be dealt with on its merits by the public servants of the American people, the better protection by the government of the bank deposits of its citizens is such a problem.

A government that fails to protect the bank deposits of all the people cannot long command the confidence of a majority of the people.

What Price Freedom?

Freedom is grand! But everything has its price. And the price that women have paid for their independence is the loss of tenderness from the sterner sex.

* * *

That "I'll-take-care-of-you little-girl" attitude has changed in the last decade, to the "Take-care-of-yourself-old-girl" attitude. And, personally, I feel that we are missing a lot.

The modern girl, who is accustomed to being treated like a brother, backed around a ballroom and shunted into a motorcar, may never secretly yearn to be "cherished" by a big, stalwart he-man, or sigh for a broad shoulder to cry on. And I may be just a silly old sentimentalist.

* * *

Still, it WAS comforting, in the old days, to know that when you went for a moonlight drive with a man, you didn't have to wear your walking boots. No girl had ever heard of "walking back home."

* * *

Of course, all good feminists will tell you that there was nothing "sincere or honest" about old-fashioned chivalry. It was just man's way of keeping woman in her place. Tenderness and chivalry were merely artificial frills.

But, if all "artificial frills" are to be discarded, in this frank and honest age, why do women use make-up and imported perfumes, and wear alluring Paris gowns?

* * *

* * *

Now, woman can take care of HERSELF; fight her own battles, shove her way into the trolley or the subway, pay her own taxi fare, and bring home her own pay envelope. And all this gives her a sense of power and strength and dignity.

* * *

Yet, sometimes I wonder—merely academically, of course—if a pay envelope and a chance to carry her own latch-key and her own grips make up to her for the loss of masculine tenderness. And if the new thrill of independence is worth the price of all the old thrills.

* * *

Then I remember how women have swum the English Channel and flown across the Atlantic, and won seats in Congress and political campaigns. And, of course, those are greater thrills than an old-fashioned tender romance. Oh yes, of COURSE!

PARTS OF THE ATOM

By Archibald Henderson

As new fields of research come into view and new claims are made for their recognition as sciences, the belief is more deeply confirmed that a subject approximates to science in proportion to the extent of its use of mathematics. Things must be measured, weighed, counted, registered; laws are usually established by classifying phenomena and arranging them, both by quality and quantity. Nature, in all of its manifestations, is somehow connected with number. We cannot safely proceed without this reliance upon number.

Consider, for example, the primordial elements out of which the universe is made. After centuries, we are at least beginning to understand the nature of these building units. We can count them, describe them, study them, compare them with each other. What an enormous advance since the days of Aristotle, when there were supposed to be just four elements: Water, earth, air and fire.

For 2,000 years, approximately, these primitive ideas prevailed. The new light on these matters we owe in no small measure to Lavoisier, although Boyle had keen divinations of the truth. Then came into being the conception of the atom—meaning the indivisible.

Sixty years ago, a new epoch in the study of the constitution of matter was inaugurated by the brilliant Russian scientist, Dmitri Mendeleef. It was he who proposed the famous periodic law of chemical elements, by which the elements, arranged according to the magnitude of atomic weights, show a periodic change of properties. His catalog was carefully prepared on the basis of chemical valency; and he soon saw that there were a considerable number of blanks, which the scientists of the future, by their skill in research, must fill.

Indeed, Mendeleef had the faith of the great scientist—absolute confidence in his criteria. He ventured even to predict not only the existence but also the properties of six new, hitherto undiscovered elements. His faith has been abundantly justified; for all six of these elements have since been found. They are, as now named, scandium, gallium, germanium, polonium, masurium and rhenium. Within 15 years after Mendeleef's discovery, the first three were discovered; the last two, however, are comparatively recent discoveries.

The atom no longer remains the primordial, primitive substance. The atom is made up of, or at least contains, sub-atomic "substances" or charges; the proton and the electron. As research proceeded and new discoveries were made, the fact emerged that atomic number, that is, the number of electrons in an atom, is a more fundamental property than atomic weight. Atomic number is now the universal basis of classification. The list begins with hydrogen of atomic number 1, and ends with uranium of atomic number 92.

Mendeleef believed in the existence of chemical elements homologous to manganese; and to these he gave the names: eka-manganese and dvi-manganese. The former is now numbered 43, the latter 75. Discovery of both was announced as late as 1925, by two German chemists, Walter Noddack and Ida Tacke. For these they proposed the names as masurium and rhenium, which were accepted by scientists. Much scepticism prevailed among chemists concerning rhenium, but this has been eliminated by the recent convincing researches of Dr. W. F. Meggers, of the United States Bureau of Standards. Only two elements in the atomic number scale still defy discovery: those to fill the blanks numbered 85 and 87. These furnish challenge and opportunity to scientists.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Should the child of an alien be declared an American citizen—

Or should he, too, be rated as an alien until he has earned his naturalization?

They've been discussing that question in the California State Federation of Women's Clubs and it has raised plenty of rumpus. Think it over for yourself—

Here comes Tony—or Carl or Serge, as the case may be—sailing in past the Goddess of Liberty, to build himself a home and make money in this country. Tony's an alien. Nothing wrong in that fact. So are Americans, once they set foot on foreign land. Alien or not, he's a good neighbor—honest, industrious, thrifty, just the sort of worker we need to develop our resources.

So Tony settles down—succeeds. But always his heart is turning back to his mother country—that old country which was too poor to give him a living, but which he loves, nevertheless. As you, too, would love your mother, though she wore rags. And because of that love, Tony doesn't become a citizen. For, again, it would be like deserting one's mother. . . saying he wasn't her son. Wouldn't you and I feel the same, do the same, if we were stranded in Egypt or Norway or Italy? How do you feel toward an American who gives up his birthright and becomes the citizen of another country? Not so good! Then why should we be hard on Tony if he remains an alien? If we're sensible, we aren't—

But, now comes Tony's child. . . and THAT'S another story. According to our law, an alien's child becomes an American citizen. BUT CAN HE BE, AT HEART, AN AMERICAN CITIZEN?

"He certainly can!" many good Americans declare stoutly. "He goes to American schools, makes American friends, works in American stores, is trained by American standards. It would be a crime against childhood to deprive him of citizenship."

"Not so!" cry equally sincere citizens. "The child of an alien isn't and can't be trained by American standards. He may go to American schools, but he's raised in an alien home. From the time he's a baby he absorbs alien prejudices and viewpoints. His parents may not be actively hostile to America, but the very fact that they refuse to be naturalized proves that they love another country better. They're bound to compare America with that other country—to America's disadvantage. Bound to criticize America. Criticism is all right—if the heart behind it is loyal. But it's dangerous when the heart is vowed to another country."

"But the alien's child doesn't love his father's country that he has never seen—"

"Perhaps not. But does he—can he—love America? Or is his a sort of mongrel affection, neither love nor hate—only a greedy determination to grab wherever the grabbing is good? And isn't that why American standards are failing . . . BECAUSE THE GREAT MASS OF OUR YOUNG PEOPLE GROW UP WITHOUT ANY STANDARDS? Tony's a good man, because he was taught to love and respect Italy and Italian law. Carl's a good man because he was taught to respect German law. They'll stay good men, wherever they go, because they were bent that way in their youth. BUT WHAT LAW ARE SECOND GENERATION ALIENS TAUGHT TO LOVE OR RESPECT? Their teachers tell them one thing, their parents tell them another, they all too often end up by establishing a law for themselves. DON'T GIVE THEM CITIZENSHIP UNTIL THEY'VE EARNED IT!"

There you have it—the pros and cons of a debate that almost turned a nice ladies' convention into a free-for-all. Well—what's YOUR idea?

Debt Cancellation

An Un-American Proposal.

By BAINBRIDGE COLBY

THE pithy sentences in which ex-President Coolidge riddles the argument, too often heard, in favor of cancelling the debts owed to this country by other governments, leave little more to be said on the subject.

It must be remembered that these obligations, amounting in 1930 to $11,641,508,460, MUST BE PAID BY SOMEONE—if not by the nations which borrowed the money and executed their promissory notes for its repayment, THEN BY THE UNITED STATES, WHICH ADVANCED IT.

Mr. Colby

These advances were not made by the United States Treasury from its stored up accumulations of wealth. No such sums were ever available to our government.

The money was raised by popular subscription to the successive issues of Liberty Bonds and every holder of a Liberty Bond holds the promise of the United States to pay the interest on the bond as it falls due, and at maturity, to pay the principal of the bond.

The United States government is therefore both a creditor and a debtor—a creditor to the European nations to whom these vast loans were made, to meet the essential needs of their national life both for war and for post-war rehabilitation, but it is also a debtor to its own people from whom it borrowed the money necessary to make these advances to our foreign debtors.

THE total public debt of the United States in 1930 was $16,185,308,299.

Assuming that our foreign debtors pay their debts as at present funded, the taxpayers of this country need pay only $4,543,799,839, to entirely liquidate the debt of the United States.

The cancellation of the European war debts would increase this figure by the sum of $11,641,508,460—in other words, practically quadruple the public debt of the country.

Thus the United States, which refused any share of the spoils of the war, which was not a party to the controversies which precipitated its outbreak, which saved the Allied cause from defeat, would find itself saddled with a great part of the burden of liquidating the war.

The United States has acted toward her foreign debtors with unexampled generosity. The borrowings from us of our foreign debtors averaged for a long period $500,000,000 per month and sometimes exceeded that sum.

WITHOUT our advances, not only would the prosecution of the war have been impossible, BUT THE ALLIES COULD NOT HAVE FED THEIR CIVIL POPULATIONS NOR MAINTAINED THEIR NATIONAL EXISTENCE.

When these great loans were made, the obligation to repay them was evidenced by the promissory notes of the borrowing nations. These notes have not been paid. They have not even been renewed. What has been done with them?

In commercial parlance, they have gone to protest. As a matter of fact, however, with varying degrees of delay they have been FUNDED—IN OTHER WORDS, DRASTICALLY REDUCED WITH OUR FREELY GIVEN CONSENT.

From France we have agreed to accept 50 cents on the dollar of her debt. Italy is paying only 28 cents for every dollar originally owed. Instead of exacting or even asking prompt repayment, in accordance with the terms upon which the advances were made, the United States has extended the time for payment of the principal 62 years, and at the same time reduced the interest which the debtor nations pay upon the reduced principal of their obligations, far beneath the rates of interest which are usual in government loans.

BELGIUM'S rate of interest upon her indebtedness for the long period of its postponed maturity is only one and seven-tenths per cent. France pays interest at the rate of one and six-tenths per cent; Italy at the rate of four-tenths per cent and Great Britain, the promptest of our debtors to address itself to the settlement of its debt, pays interest at the rate of three and three-tenths per cent.

The United States has borne the jibes of her ungrateful debtors with stoical patience. If their memories are shorter than our own, we have not sought to remind them of their distresses and dangers, nor their cries for succor.

But no American statesman, mindful of the duty he owes his country, and no enlightened economist will urge the burdening of our people by any further confessions to our foreign debtors.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 18.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Betimes and swishing in the shower and gayly whistling from Faust. So glancing out the window found myself spied upon from a window across the way. And fretting all day how long this had been going on.

Working a space and to see William MacHarg, the most modest writing man I know. Nor has a book in years proved so absorbing as "Blind Man's Eyes," which he wrote with his brother-in-law Edwin Balmer. And along the avenue was falling a strange white powder, like a feather of snow.

In the evening dining at Lindy's and came upon Ruth Roland and Ben Bard and drove them to the theater. Going on to another playhouse to join C. N. Landon and between acts talked to Leonard and Mrs. Bergman. Home late and reversed a 30-minute talk to Paul Whiteman in Chicago, slowing up his weekly income.

* * *

* * *

She was dredged out of the Hudson the other midnight, a member of the Broadway sisterhood so adequately symbolizing Edna Millay's line "drowned in love and weedily washed ashore." Two days in the hospital and she was back in one of her old haunts. "I had not thought of God in years," she said, "but in losing consciousness I thought of Him and here I am. And somehow I can't laugh it off."

* * *

Harry Thaw is reported to have become sedate. Before departing for his seasonal jaunt to Europe he was not seen standing around Broadway save at the better sort of plays. And if he busts out before this reaches print, I haven't said a word. In fact I was at a laundry convention in Albany.

* * *

I like the frankness of a new night club impresario in a letter about the place he is to open: "I am fixing a $6 cover charge to encourage the big suckers and keep the minnows out."

* * *

Drifting into one of those mildewed penny peep shows on Sixth avenue the other evening I was arrested in my peeping by a clanging of bells, splattering of clay pipes and upsetting of revolving ducks at the rifle range nearby. An attendant whispered: "That's a pal of Legs Diamond." Whoever he was, he was squat, heavy set and not unlike the average night club gorilla. When he had finished, I sauntered over to the shooting gallery myself, picked up a gun—the second time I ever shot one—and scored a bull's eye. I quit right then, paid the attendant airily and walked out. Me and Daniel Boone!

* * *

It was somewhat like my first bet at a Deauville casino. I placed a hundred francs on the Double O—purely because of my initials—and won. I never won again. And if I ever visit another shooting gallery I'll probably wound the proprietor or shoot myself in the foot.
